Genghis Khan:
Where Was He Buried ?

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Before it be said that Shanghai has swallowed the hoax that the coffin of Genghis Khan has been removed to a new burial place, let reference be made to Lamb's "Genghis Khan":—

Genghis Khan was not destined to spend his last years in his homeland. Two hostile powers still survived in the world as the old Khan knew it—the troublesome king of Hia down Tibet-way, and the ancient Sung in Southern China. He passed a season at Karakorum among his people with Bourtai at his side, and then he was in the saddle again. Subotai (his son) was sent to invade the lands of the Sung, and Genghis Khan took upon himself the task of quelling the desert clans of Hia forever.

This he did.

The chronicle gives us a glimpse of the grim pageant of destruction—fur-clad Mongols fighting across the ice of a river, the allies, seemingly victorious charging en masse upon the veterans of the Khan's centre, the heart of the horde. Three hundred thousand men may have perished here.

And then the aftermath. Tricked, shaken and hunted down, the remaining warriors of the allies fleeing. All men capable of bearing arms put to death in the path of the horde.

But the Khan would not make an end of war. There were the people of the Sung to be humbled, as the allies had been. The horde marched in mid-winter towards the boundaries of ancient China. Ye Liu Chut-sai, the sage, dared to protest against the annihilation of the Sung.

He would not forego the military conquest of the Sung. That must be finished, to the end. He kept his saddle and led his armies across the Yellow river. Here the Khan learned of the death of Juchi in the steppes. He said that he wished to be alone in his tent, and he grieved heavily in silence for his first-born.

Not long since, when Ogotai's little son had been slain beside him at Bamiyan, the Khan had commanded the bereaved father not to show sorrow. "Obey me in this thing. Thy son is slain. I forbid thee to weep!"

Nor did he himself show outwardly that the death of Juchi troubled him. The hordes went forward, the routine was as usual, but the Khan spoke less with his officers and it was noticed that the tiddings of a fresh victory near the Caspian failed to rouse him, or to draw either comment or praise from him. When the horde entered a dense fir forest where snow lay still in the shadows, although the sun was warm, he gave command to halt.

He ordered couriers to ride swiftly to his nearest son, Tuli, who was camped not far away. When the Master of War, now a man grown, dismounted at the yurt of the Khan, he found his father lying upon a carpet near the fire, wrapped in felt and sable robes.

"It is clear to me" the old Mongol greetd the prince, "that I must leave everything and go hence from thee."

He had been sick for some time, and this sickness he knew now, was draining away his life. He ordered to his side the general officers of the horde, and while they knelt with Tuli, listening intently to his words, he gave them clear directions how to carry on the war against the Sung that he had begun but could not finish. Tuli, especially, was to take over all lands in the east, as Chatagai was to do in the west, while Ogotai must be supreme over them, the Kha Khan at Karakorum.

Like the nomad he was, he died uncomplaining, leaving to his sons the greatest of empires and the most destructive of armies, as if his possessions had been no more than tents and herds. This was in the year 1227, the year of the Mouse in the cycle of the Twelve Beasts.

The chronicle tells us that Genghis Khan made provision in his last illness for the destruction of the Hia king, his old foeman, who was then on his way to the horde. The Khan commanded that his death be secret until this could be done.

A spear was thrust, point in the earth, before the white yurt of the conqueror which stood apart from the rest of the camp. The astrologers and sages who came to wait upon the Khan were kept without by guards, and only the high officers came and went through the entrance, as if their leader were indisposed and giving orders from his bed. When the Hia monarch and his train reached the Mongols, the visitors were invited to a feast, given robes of honour and seated among the officers of the horde. Then they were slain, to a man.

Deprived of Genghis Khan, awe-struck at the death of the seemingly invincible man who had made them masters of all they could desire, the Orkhons and princes of the horde turned back to escort the body to the Gobi. Before burial it must be shown to his people and carried to the abiding place of Bourtai, the first wife. Genghis Khan had died in the lands of the Sung, and to prevent his foemen from discovering the loss of the Mongols, the warriors escorting the death car cut down all the people they met until they reached the edge of the desert. There the men of the horde, the veterans of long warfare, mourned aloud as they rode beside the funeral car.

To them it seemed incredible that the great Khan should have ceased to go before the standard, and that they were no longer to be sent hither and yon at his will.

"O lord bogdo," cried a gray-haired tar-khan, "wilt thou leave us thus? Thy birth-land and its rivers await thee, thy fortunate land with thy golden house surrounded by thy heroes await thee. Why has thou left us in this warm land, where so many foemen lie dead?"

Others took up the mourning as they crossed the bed of the barrens. In this way the chronicler has written down their lament:

Aforetime thou didst swoop like a falcon; now a rumbling car bears thee onward.
O my Khan!

Hast thou in truth left thy wife and children, and the council of thy people?
O my Khan!

Wheeling in pride like an eagle, once thou didst lead us; but now thou has stumbled and fallen.
O my Khan!

The conqueror was brought home, not to Karakorum, but to the valleys where he had struggled for life as a boy, to the heritage that he would not desert. The couriers of the hordes mounted and galloped off into the prairies, bearing word to the Orkhons and princes and the distant generals that Genghis Khan was dead.

When the last officer had come in and dismounted at the death yurt, the body was taken to its resting place—most probably to the forest he himself had selected. No one knows the exact burial place. The grave was dug under a great tree.

The Mongols says that a certain clan was exempted from military duty and charged to watch the site, and that incense was burned unceasingly in the grove until the surrounding forest grew so thick that the tall tree was lost among its fellows and all trace of the grave vanished.

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Last February I was faced with the problem of providing milk for Emigrants' children and I confidently turned to the Shanghai Public for funds to meet the cost of supplies.

My confidence was that of the Shanghai Boy who in over four decades of residence in this City has witnessed many a magnificent effort by Shanghailanders in aid of charitable objects.

And the fact that I was not disappointed and that the appeal brought and is still bringing generous support, encourages me once again to turn to my fellow Shanghailanders of all nationalities.

It has become an urgent necessity to extend the small Emigrants' Hospital of 50 beds in Whashing Road by some 200 beds.

The hospitalization problem in Shanghai has, in late years, become more and more acute and, with the influx of some 12,000 emigrants during the past ten months, conditions, in this respect, bring those who deal with the question of providing for the sick and the ailing face to face with the reality of not knowing where to place patients.

There is a big scheme afoot of the Emigrants' Associated Hospitals, but, inasmuch as this is a rather ambitious one and will require considerable funds if it is to be realized, it has to take second place for the time being.

An addition of 200 beds to the existing 50 at Whashing Road would cost some $50,000.—and with the knowledge that generous pockets in Shanghai are already being tapped heavily to meet the needs of charity, I hesitated somewhat, before I sat down this fine Sunday afternoon to pen this letter.

I remembered, however, that during the Great War it was not only princes and plutocrats who gave their palaces and wealth to help worthy causes, especially in connection with the sick, wounded and maimed, but that the ordinary man in the street contributed "his bit" and exchanged gold for iron.

I took courage from this recollection and unhesitatingly place my case before your readers and the public in general in the earnest hope that they, as far as they can, will give whatever is within their means to give.

The need is urgent.

And, before closing I am able to acknowledge the following contributions received for the Emigrants' Hospital Fund

The Hungarian Community, Shanghai $25; Mr. J. Rogalsky $25.

The British Spirit :
Something to be Remembered

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—In a recent issue of "The Times" a correspondent draws attention to the statement made by Lord Rosebery at the time of the Fashoda incident in 1898, and remarks that it is equally true today. Lord Rosebery said:—

If nations of the world are under the impression that the ancient spirit of Great Britain is dead or that her resources are weakened or her population less determined than ever it was to maintain the rights and honour of its flag, they make a mistake which can only end in a disastrous conflagration. The strength of Ministers in this country with regard to foreign affairs does not lie in the votes they command in either House of Parliament, it lies in the intrepid spirit of a united people.

It would seem that these words could be pondered to advantage in the Far East just now.

In Tientsin:
A Sentiment Applauded

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Reading in today's leader your statement:—"that what is now happening to the British in Tientsin, shameful as it undoubtedly is, is the shame of every western Power," I can't refrain from applauding it as the very expression of the feelings that the recent happenings in Tientsin and elsewhere should arouse in the heart of every white man.

History Repeating Itself ?

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Jubilant outeries of German and Italian newspapers in connection with the isolation of Tientsin Concessions reminds me somewhat of the attitude of the British press back in 1904, which was then painting the "Little fighting Japs" in shining colours.

In those days, The Great Power that Japan is today was in the making at the expense of Russian blood. Great Britain was benevolently seeing to it, that the Russian Bear, got properly kicked in the pants.

Obviously, "History repeats itself," as today the British Lion himself is annoyed by persistent Japanese pinpricks.

Our Axis friends may be well assured of similar treatment at some future date: and the "Little fighting Japs" might not be willing to wait another 35 years either.

Shortage of Coins:
How to Remedy

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Allow me to have some lines in your esteemed paper in connection with the ignoring of the shortage of copper coins by the authorities concerned and the public utility establishments and or department stores in the city. I don't know whether there is a shortage of copper coins in other parts of China.

The shortage of odd cents causes much inconvenience to the public especially the citizens of Shanghai. Travelling, shopping, and other dealings, business cannot be done without them.

I hope that the authorities concerned, especially the public utility companies and department stores of Shanghai, will devise measures to cope with the serious shortage of small monies. Coupon books should be issued, with the respective names of firms, immediately in order to meet with present requirement.

CAN'T WAIT A MOMENT.

IN order to calm 90 fellow-passengers in a British ship that ran aground recently, a man produced his shaving tackle and nonchalantly shaved himself in the companion way. The ship was the 7,403-ton Hilary, owned by the Booth Steamship Co. Ltd. and the man who assisted the efforts of the ship's officers to avert a panic was Lieut.-Col. Johnstone Smith of Brasted, Kent. The Hilary ran aground in dense fog near Carmel Head off Holyhead, Anglesey.

Seventy Years Ago

FROM THE "NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS" OF JUNE 20, 1869

There is probably more whist played in Shanghai than in any place of its size in the East. The after-dinner amusements of the settlement are not numerous and the tendency to spend time at the card table is very strong. There can be no doubt that a great many persons enjoy the game heartily; though we conceive that there are not a few who spend hours cutting, shuffling and counting points, in order to avoid the dismal conversation of those with whom their lot is cast. When we see men who are capable of far better things, making special martyrs of themselves at the table of red or green cloth, we are always disposed to quote Lord Macaulay's description of Madame D'Arblay's at the Court of George III, "Frances detested cards and indeed knew nothing about them; but she soon found that the least miserable way of passing an evening with Madame Schwellenburg was at the card table; and consented with patient sadness, to give hours which might have called forth the laughter and the tears of many generations to the king of clubs and the knave of spades."

THE tragedy of Dame Ethel Smyth, although she carries it gallantly, is that she is stone-deaf. When she visited Sadler's Wells the other night for a performance of her opera, "The Wreckers." it was not to hear, but to follow the action with her eyes.

Pleasant Journeyings

BRAVE NEW CHINA By Lady Hosie. Hodder & Stoughton, London. 12/6.

Lady Hosie is no new comer to the public, particularly to such as are interested in China and Chinese affairs, and those who have read her "Two Gentlemen of China" and "Portrait of a Chinese Lady" know the charm and knowledge with which she writes of persons and things Chinese. Her latest work, "Brave New China," shows that she has lost none of that charm, and has amplified by personal observation of more modern China and Chinese her already profound insight into the minds and thoughts of the people she so genuinely likes and whose best characteristics she seems capable of bringing to the fore in her contacts with them. The changes wrought during an absence of ten years from China, both in places and people, must have given Lady Hosie pause. but only, it would seem, for a moment, and almost from the time that she first sets foot in Canton, in July 1936, on her return to China, she has apparently without effort "got back," so to speak, and finds no difficulty in adjusting herself and her outlook to the changed scenes and conditions which she finds confronting her.

Rose-tinted Spectacles

Having realized that Lady Hosie is an idealist and is prone to see "things Chinese" through rose-tinted spectacles, and thus knowing the sort of view she is predisposed to take, the reader settles down to a perusal of her book with the feeling that he will have presented to him a view of Modern China and the Chinese somewhat different and a good deal more favourable that that of the ordinary man in the street or perhaps the common or garden business man who sojourns in China bent on making his living. During the visit to China on which this book is a running commentary, the author travelled extensively in nearly all parts of the country. Starting from Canton, she proceeds to Shanghai, Weihaiwei, Tsingtao, Tientsin, Tsinanfu, Peiping (or Peking as the Japanese now call it), Taiyuan the capital of Shansi, up the Yangtze, Hankow, the Gorges, Chengtu, Chungking, back again to Shanghai, and thence to Wenchow, Ningpo and Nanking. During her travels it must be noted that Lady Hosie was, as she herself says, singularly fortunate; nearly everywhere she was welcomed and entertained by missionaries, partly for her own sake, also for the sake of her father or her husband, both well-known students of things Chinese, and was not therefore dependent on the Chinese hotel system, which she frankly admits has not yet arrived, at any rate in the interior. Had Lady Hosie not been possessed of these personal, parental and marital credentials her journeyings might not have been quite so pleasant and she would perhaps have come up against realities in a greater degree.

A Long Way to Go

In her ability to write as she does, so intimately and understandingly of the people she was thrown into contact with, lies the essence and charm of her writing, which one cannot help feeling might not have been attained had she perforce either to write less faithfully or to ignore a good deal of what might have removed some of the "gilt from the gingerbread." Nearly everywhere Lady Hosie goes she meets old friends, and this must have helped her considerably in making comparisons between China Old and China New, and in giving the opinions and views she so definitely and clearly expresses. The book was actually written in England and was commenced some months after the outbreak of hostilities between the Japanese and China in Shanghai. It was lucky that Lady Hosie had left China before this happened, otherwise and if she had personally experienced the first months of the undeclared war this book would probably not have been written. It must be more than ordinarily distressing for her to read about and visualize the horrors and destruction which have taken place since she paid her last visit to China, and which must have so greatly changed the lives and conditions of the people with whom she conversed and the places she visited. There are no doubt people in China such as she has described in her book, Christian, gentle, honest, genuine and straightforward, and it is nice to read about them and believe that there are such; but there are a great many others, and of these, it is to be feared, the vast majority are very much the reverse of these things and who have not stood the test to which they have been subjected. There is no doubt the China of today is infinitely more efficient and enlightened than even ten years ago, and it is safe to say that had the Japanese invasion occurred ten years ago China's resistance would not have been the same as it has been, but there is a long way to go yet.

Complete Metamorphosis

However, these observations are going a little beyond the scope of a review, and it is only necessary to add that in Lady Hosie we find one who sincerely believes in and likes the Chinese and who is prepared to see the very best in them, and who has written a most interesting account of her last visit to a China which is rapidly passing and which she will never see again, for unchanging China is undergoing a complete metamorphosis. There are many other writers on China and the Chinese who are perhaps more up to date in their appreciation of conditions and whose stark realities tend to shock, and it is not unpleasant to find someone who has little but good to say for the Chinese and to try and shut out from one's mind what is the real situation in China, and to put aside for a brief space fears of what may happen when the undeclared war is over. How will Lady Hosie and others of her school of thought fare then, and how long will their idealism of China and the Chinese remain unshattered?—R.F.C.M.

Time heals all pain and misunderstanding, because we change and are no longer the same persons. Neither the offender nor the offended are any more themselves.—PASCAL.

Tour of a Housewife

JAPANESE LADY IN AMERICA By Haruko Ichikawa (Mrs. Sanki Ichikawa). Kenkyusha Co., Tokyo. Y.3.50.

I have had Mrs. Ichikawa's earlier book, "Japanese Lady in Europe," on my book list for a long time without having had any opportunity to read it. This book makes me anxious to do so, not because she has anything very startling or unusual to say, but because she writes with so much enthusiasm and such an eye for detail.

Mrs. Ichikawa went to the States in December 1937, and was in fact on her way across when the news of the sinking of the Panay came through. Her two main purposes in making this trip were to see America and to act as an emissary of good will from the people of Japan to the people of America. That word "misunderstood" that we hear so often these days crops up constantly in her discussions of the Sino-Japanese incident.

Hopping on One Leg

The author herself describes the book as nothing but a record by a Japanese housewife who for a short time stopped eating her own sukiyaki to sample the hospitality of America. Her English was shaky, but she never minded making blunders; as she says, "the fun of my trip is that hopping on one leg I should have hiked through America without difficulty." She made friends wherever she went. In fact I suspect that a Japanese lady travelling by herself in the States is still enough of a novelty to attract a good deal of notice. She was interviewed and photographed and invited to a P. E. N. Club dinner where she met J. B. Priestley. At an "Asia" lunch party she talked with Pearl Buck, and praises her (somewhat prematurely!) for not writing a novel about the China incident.

Polyglot "Good Morning"

Mrs. Ichikawa took in most of the usual "sights" in the course of her trip, the Golden Gate Bridge, Niagara Falls, Boulder Dam, Grand Canyon, etc., and she gives an entertaining description of a Christmas service at the Angelus Temple, "more like a pantomime than a church service."

> The Heavenly Kingdom itself was just like a decorated cake and I thought it was ridiculous that so many virtuous people rushed in there like a stream of ants.

She has a failing not uncommon in globe-trotters. She loves to let people know that she has travelled. Concord reminds her of the Lake District, for instance, and she takes a childish pleasure in being able to say "good morning" (and, as far as I can make out, nothing else) in a variety of languages. Mrs. Ichikawa does, however, give the impression that she says what she really thinks and not what she feels she ought to say, and her book makes light and entertaining reading. It is worth reading, too, for the sidelights it throws on life in Japan and the contrasts she notices everywhere between the poverty of Japan and the wealth of the United States of America.—W.M.M.

Bedside Book

PAGES FROM A LAWYER'S NOTEBOOK By E. S. P. Haynes. The Thinker's Library No. 75. Watts, London. 1/-.

Here is a selection of what one can only suppose the selector considers the best and wittiest portions of three books published some years ago named "A Lawyer's Notebook," "More from a Lawyer's Notebook," and the "Lawyer's Last Notebook," and written by the editor of the present work. The selection has apparently been made by the publisher. The last paragraph of the book under review says this book is not meant for consecutive reading: it is meant as a bedside book and as a cure for insomnia. The reader is intended to soothe his mind, and if any item irritates him he is asked to pass at once to another page. As to the first remark this would seem to be emphatically so. As to the efficacy of the book as a sleep-producer, it must be tried before it can be recommended. There are undoubtedly some clever things in it. On the other hand there is a lot which might quite fairly be otherwise described. It is published at a shilling, and is no doubt a good "bobs-worth" for the clever things alone.—R.F.C.M.

A China Review

THE CHINA QUARTERLY Special Spring Number. 496 Avenue Joffre, Shanghai. Per annum $4.

This special spring number of "The China Quarterly" deals mainly with war-time financial and economic reconstruction, the first article, by Dr. H. H. Kung, being "China's Recent External and Internal Progress." Mr. P. T. Chen, the Editor-in-Chief, writes on "Foundations of China's War-time Finance and Economy," Dr. Wong Wen-hao on "China's War Economy," with special reference to agriculture, mining, industries and water conservancy, while articles on Communications and Transport, by Mr. Chang Kai-ngau, Currency Measures, by Dr. Y. Dung, and Health Administration, by Dr. F. C. Yen, follow. Mr. K. P. Liu writes on Industrial Co-operatives, Dr. W. Y. Lin on "The Behaviour of Prices in China since the War," the economic development of China's Southwest and Northwest is described by Mr. D. K. Lieu and Mr. C. C. Ku respectively, and Dr. H. D. Fong deals with "Industrialization for China's Southwest." There is a short article on Szechuen by Mr. K. P. Hu, and two articles received too late for the previous number, "Chinese Drama Goes to War," by Mr. Chang Tao-fan, and "War-time Development of Chinese Literature" by Mr. Kuo Mo-jo are included.

"Le Nord" (Einar Munksgaards Forlag, Copenhagen), in its first number for 1939, devotes four of its articles in the French language to the defence problems of Denmark, Finland, Norway and Sweden. The first article in English is "Progress in Modern Iceland" by Eysteinn Jonsson, Icelandic Minister of Finance. In 1785 the population of Iceland had come down to 39,000, today it is 117,000. Although progress up to 1890 was very slow, the last few decades mark a new era. For example:

> About 1890 the Icelanders had no steamers, either passenger ships or freighters; for all transport to and from the country they were wholly dependent on foreign shipping. Even the coastal services had to be kept up by foreign bottoms. But now the Icelanders have eighteen steamers for passengers and freight, totalling 15,040 register tons. Among them there are some very comfortable passenger ships, running regularly between Iceland and other countries. The first ship of this kind was acquired by the Icelanders in 1914.

"L'Histoire du Nord dans les Ecoles des Pays Nordiques" is by Aage Friis, formerly professor of history in and Rector of the University of Copenhagen, while "The New Norwegian Dependency in the Antarctic" is dealt with by Fridtjov Isachsen, Lecturer in Geography at the University of Oslo. The Professor of Bio-Chemistry at the Royal Technical College, Helsinski, writes on "The Achievement of Self-Dependence in Cattle-feeding in the Northern Countries." "Hjalmar Branting a Genève" is an appreciation by the Secretary-General of the Swedish Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The "Chronique Trimestrielle," printed in German and English, completes the number.

New Fiction

Mr. Peter Meriton, author of many excellent mystery yarns, has produced another winner in "Captain Dack" (Hurst & Blackett, London. 7/6). In this story he has shown great ingenuity in the choice of properties, which has lifted it out of the ruck of most modern crime stories. The result is that the book, which has been recommended by the Crime Society, possesses all the attributes which are needed to keep the reader in a satisfied frame of mind throughout its pages. He tells of the mysterious disappearance of the steamer Town of Melchester, as seaworthy a vessel as you could wish to find throughout the seven seas, equipped with dual radio and first-class life-boats, of the events leading up to the ship's disappearance, and of the part played by as dangerous a bunch of criminals as the reader could wish to see. Outstanding among the characters is Captain Dack, master of a small tramp steamer, not too scrupulous, but hiding his lesser villainies under a cloak of virtue when the law is about—a tough handful, with the mistaken impression that he has been gifted with cunning and a still more mistaken belief that he can play the banjo. Working side by side with Dack is Sam Tench, his first and usually only officer, who agrees with his skipper on most things and can stand most of his doings with the exception of his cunning periods and banjo playing. The tale of Dack's intervention in the dangerous game which followed the disappearance of the Town of Melchester makes exciting and extremely humorous reading. "Captain Dack" is certainly one of Mr. Meriton's best.—R.S.

Mr. Sergey Potemkin's "Grasdanka" (Laurie, London. 7/6) is a story of a fifteen-year-old foundling girl taken from a Soviet welfare institution by a Commissar, who goes to inspect the institution, and being attracted by the girl's looks and manners, takes her away with a view of making her his mistress, on the pretext of giving her a job. Her adventures, mainly with men and not too savoury at that, form the theme of the book. It is written by a Russian, and probably reads better in Russian than in the somewhat crude translation which constitutes the English text. At any rate it is to be hoped it does. The book is not without interest, but a story so commonplace, albeit tragic, requires very special treatment to raise it out of the ruck. There are a number of excellent character sketches, and some of the situations are graphically described, but there is nothing in particular to capture the interest.—R.F.C.M.

> The Great Conductor had punched the last hole in his ticket.

A wonderful simile that — suggesting as it does that the world is one great bus. Mr. James L. Rubel has given us a line of thought that might take us far, although in "The Lazy L Brand" (Ward Lock, London. 3/6) he is concerned more with the horse as a means of locomotion, and only once is there definite mention of wheels behind it. The story is well told. Jim Bore, joining that company of avengers of whom we hear so much, is out to seek the murderer of his kindly foster father. He comes by chance upon the man he seeks, and finds that he is a cripple. He seems an ill-natured man, but tending him with every care, although hating her life, is a girl with slender figure, hazel eyes, and a glorious halo of bright gold hair. Going a little further back, we find that Jim had already met a woman with hair black as a crow's wing and cobalt eyes — hard work had tightened the lines about her face, but the mark of former loveliness was still there. By great ill chance, Jim shoots her husband, thereby no doubt saving him from the rope that he deserved — for he was what is known as a cattle rustler. A thought then enters the widow's head. Jim Bore was going to support her and her children, or pay the penalty. She betakes herself and her children to his house and stays there. A difficult problem, indeed, but one for which, fortunately for Jim, a solution is found by Mr. Rubel's very able pen.—D.P.

A kiss in the dark! A man killed a few minutes later! A deserted house! In those terse terms is voiced the complete set of facts that were presented to the portly and rather bovine Inspector Wake of Scotland Yard in his initial investigations into the murder of Mr. Burton, a rather mysterious new-comer to the selectness of suburban Gateham and its tribe of genteel bankers, city merchants and snobbish womenfolk. The Inspector finds himself up against a brick wall, but relentlessly pursuing every possible clue that he can lay his hands on, is enabled—by a stroke of luck—to arrive finally at the correct solution by an amazing interpretation of the kiss in the dark. The climax is rather extraordinary and has the effect of lifting "Slander Villa" (Ward Lock, London. 3/6) out of the usual rut. Mr. Charles Kingston, the author, who seems to improve with each novel, has written a clever mixture of thrills, detection and romance. His plot is ingenious, well constructed, and full of artistry, while he tells his story in a manner that enthralls. A fine example of the murder-cum-mystery novel.—F.A.P.

Reich's Claim to Free City Stressed by Dr. Goebbels

Emphasis Laid on Cultural Affinity of Danzig to Germany by Minister of Propaganda

Danzig, June 18.

DANZIG and its future today formed the subject of a second address by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Reich Minister of Propaganda, within 24 hours. Inaugurating the Free City's Cultural Week, Dr. Goebbels referred to his speech of the previous evening, when he had tried to explain, on the basis of political considerations, the desire and determination of the Danzig population to return to the Reich. "Today," he said, "it is my task to show that this desire and determination also arise from cultural motives."

This task, the Minister continued, was not very difficult. "Political frontiers may change from time to time, but the frontiers traced by language, race and blood are ineradicable and unchanging. This is so in the case of Danzig. In this city, therefore, I feel exactly as in any other city of the Reich.

"The German character of the city of Danzig can no longer be the object of any cheap parliamentary prevarication. If Danzig has suddenly become the focus of international interest this has no influence on the cultural character of the city. Danzig is at present the object of political contention among European powers, but it can never be an object of controversy on cultural, racial or ancestral grounds.

"One might perhaps raise the objection that in conflicts of the great European powers, cultural considerations could not become decisive. We take the opposite view. Precisely where the character and relationship of a town, province or state remain in doubt, cultural qualities constitute the deciding factor."

Having thus outlined the cultural considerations at the basis of the claim for reincorporation of Danzig into the Reich, Dr. Goebbels proceeded to review in broad lines the cultural policy of National Socialism in the life of the theatre, motion pictures, painting, sculpture and architecture, contesting the assertion often made in democratic countries that in the authoritarian states intellectual freedom was suppressed.

Intellectuals Under Public Control

In the Third Reich, the speaker said, all brain workers had to subordinate their activities to the interests and well-being of the entire people, whereas in democratic countries they served capitalistic and material interests. In reality, cultural development in Germany was always under public control.

As one example, Dr. Goebbels cited the film and showed the great market potentialities which lay in a community of 80 million people. "We do not need to worry much about the unduly conspicuous competition of the North American Union," he declared. "Germany has today the possibility of pursuing a certain cultural autarchy, not by any means to her own disadvantage, but rather to that of other countries which talk a lot about culture but which, as their history proves, they do not possess."

In this difficult and trying time, Dr. Goebbels concluded, trust should be placed in the German Fuehrer. "Before us stands the Reich, great, strong and unconquerable. Behind us stand the people and over us the Fuehrer."—Trans-Ocean.

Parade in Free City

Danzig, June 18.

"Culture Week" in Danzig was brought to an end this afternoon when the Hitler Youth organization held a parade on Langer Market.

It was noted that contrary to previous announcements, Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Reich's Propaganda Minister, failed to make a speech.

Speeches were made by Herr Goepfert, chief of the Hitler Youth group here, and by Herr Huth, Vice-President of the Senate.

The former said that no one could surpass Danzig's youth in devotion to the Fuehrer and the German nation. Herr Huth's address centred about "the sacred nature of the fight carried on by Danzig for her German liberty."—Havas.

Danzig Enthusiastic

Berlin, June 18.

"The Danzig plebiscite has been completed," the "Montag" stated today following the enthusiastic welcome accorded Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels when he spoke in the Free City yesterday.

The article was devoted to the reception given the statesman before the city theatre where he went to enjoy a ballet.

Dr. Goebbels was loudly acclaimed and was urged to make a speech. He was interrupted on occasion by cries of, "Ein Reich, Ein Volk, Ein Fuehrer."

It was in his address that Dr. Goebbels emphasized Danzig's desire to return to the Reich.

The "Montag" wrote today, "German Danzig and its German people yesterday expressed their faith in the evident unity of the Greater Reich and Danzig and their will to be incorporated in the Reich.....

"The plebiscite has now been carried out. The people have spoken."—Havas.

Changes Nothing in Danzig

Warsaw, June 19.

Nothing was changed in the situation of Danzig by the address delivered there last night by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Reich's Propaganda Minister, Polish political quarters asserted today.

Dr. Goebbels only repeated what Herr Adolf Hitler had stated on April 28. in his Reichstag speech, when he had uttered German claims on the Free City.

Moreover, since that time, Poland had not in any way changed her position from that outlined on May 5 by Col. Joseph Beck, when he stated Warsaw was ready to negotiate but only on a basis of full equality, they concluded.—Havas.

"Danzig's Desire"

Berlin, June 19.

The cheers which arose every time Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Minister of Propaganda, alluded to Danzig's desire for union with the Reich when he addressed a rally at Danzig over the week-end, are greeted here as "Danzig's option for the Reich."

Dr. Goebbels is generally referred to as an emissary of Herr Hitler.

The "Voelkische Beobachter" proclaims: "Today Danzig knows that it is not alone. That is the historic meaning of June 17, 1939."

In the course of his speech Dr. Goebbels said there could be no doubt about the German character of Danzig, and that even their opponents did not deny it.

"What is important," he asserted, "is the will and determination of the City to return to the Reich. Political boundaries may shift for a while, but boundaries of language and race cannot be wiped out. Therefore, I feel myself in Germany here."

"Other nations," Dr. Goebbels added, "have great empires and do not have to reckon with every penny. We are have-nots. We are only just beginning our history. Today we are a nation in arms. The German peoples are with you and you need not feel concerned about your so-called Free City. The Fuehrer watches over you and your future."—Reuter.

Tientsin Challenge Must Be Met

Amounts to Declaration Of War, States Famous British Admiral

London, June 18.

The Japanese blockade of the British Concession in Tientsin is condemned in strong speeches made today by Mr. Arthur Greenwood, one of the leading members of the British Labour Party, and Admiral of the Fleet Sir Roger Keyes, formerly Commander-in-Chief of the Portsmouth and Mediterranean stations.

"Events in Tientsin, with the support given Japan by Germany and Italy, really amount to a declaration of war against the British Empire, and it is a challenge which must be met," declared Sir Roger Keyes.

He said he was convinced that if Great Britain were resolute and firm, and showed the whole world that she was ready to enter into a struggle, making full use of her wealth, industry and manpower, she could win without a clash of arms.

Obligations Flouted

Mr. Arthur Greenwood, speaking at West Bromwich, declared that Japan, doubtless inspired by her friends in Europe, had deliberately and impudently flouted both Great Britain and her own international obligations.

It must be made clear to dictatorship and militarist Powers, whether in the east or west, he asserted, that Britain and other Democracies would not tolerate this organized attempt to undermine the foundations of international law and impose the rule of force on the world.

Peace, he added, was imperilled, not because of the desires of the people of Germany, Italy and Japan, but owing to the ambitions of their rulers.

Such ambitions, Mr. Greenwood said, must be curbed.

The speaker criticized the policy of the National Government, to which he ascribed the present threatening situation.—Reuter.

ADVICE TO NURSING MOTHERS

It is very important, doctors say, not to overtax your system immediately after the birth of a child. When you are feeding baby yourself, you should take plenty of easily digested nourishment.

For that reason, doctors throughout China recommend Horlicks. They have proved that Horlicks stimulates the appetite, promotes sound sleep and strengthens the whole system. Also Horlicks increases the supply of maternal milk and ensures the success of breast feeding.

Get Horlicks to-day from your store.

Cubs Capture Doubleheader

Giants' Winning Chain Finally Broken by Cards; Rowe Masters Yankee Attack ; "Dizzy" Dean Shines

New York, June 18.

THE St. Louis Cardinals today halted the baseball winning streak of the New York Giants at nine games. The Cards hammered out 15 hits to take an 8-4 victory over Bill Terpy's third place club.

The National League leading Cincinnati Reds split a doubleheader with Boston. The Reds won the opener, 12-6, on 16 hits.

The Chicago Cubs grabed both ends of a double header with Brooklyn, 1-0 and 9-1.

"Dizzy" Dean pitched all the way for the Cubs and earned his third victory and second shutout of the season.

Bill Lee succeeded in winning his sixth pitching victory of the season in the nightcap, after six futile tries.

He held the Dodgers to eight scattered hits.

The opening game was the shortest in either league this season, one hour and 27 minutes.

In the American League, the Detroit Tigers got an 8-5 revenge over the New York Yankees.

"Schoolboy" Rowe, the big right-handed pitcher who used to tame the Yankees regularly, held the world champions to eight hits.

Chicago's White Sox beat Philadelphia, 6-5, in the first of the two games, but the Athletics came back with a 9-4 victory in the nightcap

Columbians Beat Foreign Y.M.C.A.

Fierce Softball Battles Waged With Slim Margins Deciding Outcomes

Collecting a dozen runs in the first and third innings, the Columbia Country Club "Nationals" scored a 14 to 10 victory over the Foreign Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon on the Race Course diamond for a second straight win in the Shanghai Softball League. The "Nationals" looked strong enough to defend the championship which they won last year.

Dr. F. Nance stood out as he homered twice in the second and third innings. Katz and Inwood of the "Y" also garnered a four-base hit each in the fifth frame which helped to reduce arrears by batting in a total of four runs.

The first inning saw no less than eleven runs chalked up. The "Nationals" accounted for seven and the "Y" four. Smith started out for the ultimate winners with a single. Malone, who pitched for the victorious team, also hit away and they scored on the efforts of James and Nance. Five more runs came across as Fielden. Honeycutt, Hebel, Lewis and Brown succeeded in going round the bases.

Not to be outdone, the "Y" also managed to break into the scoring column. Katz was the first to tag Malone for a hit and scored as both Kohnert and Von Senden got on base. Chanturai rapped out a high-flung shot over the fielders' heads, the ball travelling for a home run and bringing in the runners as well. The opponents tightened up and so did Malone on the mound to stop the swelling tide.

Dr. Nance Scores

Matching Chanturai's performance, Dr. Nance slugged a long fly towards left field. He pranced home on it. Katz crossed the rubber for the second time in the last half of the inning but the "Nationals" drew away with a string of five runs in the third session. Lewis and Brown made the first pair of runs and the remaining trio came from Nance's second four-base hit towards left field where Katz could not judge the flight of the ball which soared over him. Malone and James were on base when the slugger batted.

The gap was closed in the fifth inning. Katz hammered out a four-base hit. With Von Senden and Chanturai on base, Inwood drove a hot one towards right field and the shot was good for three runs. Vernick, who made a beautiful catch in the first part of the sixth round from Smith's high fly, scored the "Y" team's last run before Fielden put across the game's final tally for the "Nationals" in the seventh frame.

The starting line-ups were:—

Y.M.C.A.	C.C.C.	Pos.
Kazimiroff	Malone	p.
Chanturai	Hebel	c.
Sterelny	Lewis	1b.
Ridgeway	Nance	2b.
Von Senden	Brown	3b.

Foreign Y.M.C.A.	4	1	0	0	4	1	0	—	10

On the grounds of the Shanghai American School, the Texaco team scored a hair-raising victory over the Marine Officers by 9 to 8, marking the second straight win for the Oilmen and the same number of defeats for the service men.

The score first favoured the "Leathernecks," who netted a pair of runs in the second inning. The Texas Company players regained the lead by gaining four runs in the next frame. The ultimate victors held the 2-run margin until the seventh inning when the Marines, who batted first, chalked up three tallies to lead again. However, the civilians once more forged to the front by pushing in the required three runs for a final victory.

The Jewish Recreation Club, conquerors of the C.C.C. "Americans" last week, were surprisingly outscored by the Rowing Club, 13-12, on their own grounds. The Buccaneers, in their first league appearance yesterday, shut out the "Americans" on the losers' diamond by a clear 6-run margin.

Parker Wins Title

St. Louis, June 18.

Frankie Parker of Pasadena, calif., today defeated Gene Mako of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4, to win the "Triple A" invitational tennis championship, his third straight tournament victory in recent weeks. The win boosted him as a Davis Cup contender.—United Press.

Britain Wins Final Polo Match

Meadown Brook, June 18.

Great Britain's gallant horsemen who failed to win the International Polo challenge cup in their series with the United States today defeated the best American team, 16 goals to 14, in a special game but they were aided by a ten-goal handicap.

The Americans tried hard but were unable to overcome the huge handicap and lost to a hard-fighting British team.

Today's match was the only one of the series of three, played on handicap basis. The United States won the previous two matches and therefore retained the Westchester Cup. —United Press.

Tennis Championships Here Progress

Women's Doubles First Round Completed

The last two matches in the first round of the Ladies Doubles Championship were played off during the past week-end at the Cercle Sportif Francais. Mrs. J. N. Lewis Bryan and Mrs. L. Ovadia defeated Mrs. H. E. Heinzerling and Miss B. Harrop on Saturday by 6-3 and 6-0 while Mrs. B. Krenov and Mrs. H. Collaco beat Misses Mimie and Florie Ouei on Sunday by 6-2 and 6-1.

The winners of the first-named match will now play Mrs. M. Reader Harris and Miss M. S. Holwill in the upper bracket of the semi-finals while the other winners will meet Miss D. Rudge and Madame G. Mary in the lower bracket for the right to enter the final.

One Mixed Doubles match, the last of the second round, will take place today when Mrs. Reader Harris and L. D. Carson are to clash with A. G. Meise and Miss C. Tavares at the Country Club grounds.

Hai Alai to Be Played In the Philippines

Auditorium Authorities Building Fronton

Manila, June 19.

President Manuel Quezon today allowed sixteen Assembly Bills to become law without signature. The bills included authorization for the construction of a large hai alai fronton. A portion of the proceeds from the betting on the game is to go to the Philippines Anti-Tuberculosis Society and other semi-official charities.

The local hai alai fronton is to be constructed by the same group which controls the game in Shanghai. Mr. Haig Assadourian, General Manager of the Parc des Sports, which owns the Auditorium where hai alai is played in Shanghai, is in Manila at present.

President Quezon vetoed the hai alai bill last year, however, the Assembly passed the bill again at a recent session.

The President of the Commonwealth signed a bill liberalizing naturalization laws by lifting a ban on alien Orientals, but providing a ten-year period before full citizenship will be granted compared with the present term of five years.—United Press.

Hamburg Racing Season

Hamburg, June 19.

The flat racing season started here yesterday on the Horn Race Course. The main race of the first day was the 21,500 Mark Hansa Prize, which was won by the five-year-old "Walzerkoenig" under Streit, second place being taken by "Trollius" and third by "Waldfrieder Blasius."—Trans-Ocean.

English XI Against West Indies

London, June 19.

The English team for the first Test against the West Indies beginning at Lord's on June 24 was announced today, and will be composed of:

Hammond (captain), Hutton, Verity, Bowes, Dennis Compton, Paynter, Hardstaff, Wright, Copson, Gimblett and Wood, of Yorkshire.—Reuter.

Lusitano Bowls Cup

The Calatroni Cup competition of Clube Lusitano took place on Lusitano green in Hongkew Park last Saturday.

The cup was presented by Messrs. Calatroni, Hsieh & Co., the well-known architects, to be competed for annually, to be won two years in succession or three times in all.

Conditions are as follows: each competitor to bowl 11 ends, two woods each end, knock-out system.

There were 23 entries for the above competition which was won by H. A. Ozorio, runner-up being J. M. B. Gutierrez.

Previous winners were:—

A. J. Roza	1932
A. M. Gutierrez	1933
A. A. Leitao	1934

American Couple Take French Doubles

Borotra, Brugnon Beaten In Five-Set Struggle

Paris, June 18.

The French national tennis tournament was brought to a close at the Roland Garros Stadium today as three championships, supplementing the two settled yesterday, were contested.

Don MacNeil and C. Harris, of the United States, scored a well-earned but hard won victory over the much older French pair of Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon to win the men's doubles crown. Scores were 4-6, 6-4, 6-0, 2-6, 10-8.

Mme. Mathieu, France, and Mlle. Jedrzejowska, Poland, won the ladies' doubles by defeating Mlle. Floria and Mme. Kovac of Yugoslovia by 7-5, 7-5.

In the third final of the day, Miss Fabyan and E. Cooke, U.S.A., won the mixed doubles championship in beating the Franco-Yugoslav team of Mme. Mathieu and F. Kukuljevic by 4-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Among the spectators at today's play was Frederick Snite, Jr., "the man in the iron lung," who watched the matches from his steel-and-glass respirator with the aid of mirrors. His doctor was constantly at his side, under a huge coloured parasol.—Havas.

Players Ordered Of Football Fields

International Games Are Marred By Incidents As Poor Sportsmanship Seen

Bucharest, June 18.

Showing poor sportsmanship when the score stood at one goal to nothing against them, three members of a visiting Italian team were ordered off the field by a Hungarian referee during a match this afternoon.

The game was played between a local team, known as the Venus XI, and the best Italian team, which came from Bologna for the match. The final score was 1-0 in favour of the Rumanians.

The winners led by the single goal at the half-time interval. Right from the start, nervousness among the players had been evident. This came to a head when, shortly after resumption, two Rumanian players were struck by Italian players.

One of the assailants, Andreolo, well-known on Italian football fields, was ordered off the ground. Warnings were given to the Italian team.

Soon after, however, two other Italians insulted the referee for alleged unfairness. They, too, were then ordered off the field, leaving but eight Italian players to finish the game in a tense atmosphere.—Havas.

Austrians Expelled

Berlin, June 18.

The football championship of the Reich was won today by a Westphalian team, the Schalke 04 Football Club, which beat an Austrian XI from Vienna by the overwhelming score of 9-0 goals after a match marked by incident after incident.

A total of 90,000 spectators saw the game, in which the Vienna team, from the Admira Club, showed up poorly against their speedier, more clever opponents. Minor incidents culminated in a serious outbreak as one of the Austrians struck a Westphalian player.

After the game, Herr von Tschamer und Osten, Fuehrer of German Sports, announced that the Austrians would be expelled from the German Sports League and, therefore, would not be allowed to play any more.

Their club, Admira, would not be allowed to play to the end of the season "for neglecting to inculcate a spirit of sportsmanship in its members."

Herr von Tschamer und Osten made a special point of asking newspapermen not to raise the thorny problem of the old football rivalry between Germany and Austria on this occasion, when the Admira XI was defeated so overwhelmingly.—Havas.

Denmark Beats Norway

Paris, June 18.

In the only international football match played today without incidents, Denmark beat Norway by six goals to three before a crowd of 35,000 spectators in Copenhagen.

The Danes were in great form and asserted their superiority from the start, taking a 3-2 lead by the interval. —Havas.

Developments in Kulangsu

Japanese Consul-General's New Instructions From Tokyo Government; K.M.C. Reorganization

Amoy, June 19.

DEVELOPMENTS in the situation involving the status of Kulangsu, the International Settlement of Amoy, were foreshadowed in official Japanese circles here today following the return here of two high officials from visits to Tokyo.

Mr. Goro Uchida, Consul-General, who proceeded to the Japanese capital 10 days ago with the reply of the Kulangsu Municipal Council to his five-point proposal for a reform of the administration of the international area, returned here today, together with Rear-Admiral Shunze Mito, director of the Amoy Liaison Office of the China Development Board.

The Consul-General, it was understood, has obtained the full approval of the Tokyo authorities regarding his plan of action in obtaining a wider degree of acceptance of his demands to the Kulangsu Municipal Council.

The reply of the Council, dated June 8, was described by Mr. Uchida as "out of the question."

Other Points Studied

While agreeing in full to a suppression of anti-Japanese and other subversive activities as well as to co-operation between the Kulangsu Municipal Police and the Japanese Consular Police, the Council virtually rejected all other Japanese proposals.

The Council agreed to continue to study the third and fourth points of Mr. Uchida's proposal, providing for the enfranchisement of Formosan residents and the nomination of three Chinese by the chairman of the Amoy Peace Maintenance Commission to fill the three Chinese vacancies in the Kulangsu Municipal Council.

While consenting to the appointment of three Japanese to the police force, the Council rejected almost totally the second Japanese point asking for the appointment of Japanese nationals to the posts of Chairman of the Municipal Council, Police Commissioner, and Chief Secretary, as well as a vast increase in the number of Japanese policemen.—Domei.

Kulangsu Negotiations

Tokyo, June 19.

Mr. Goro Uchida, the Japanese Consul-General at Amoy, and Rear-Admiral Mito, Chief of the Amoy branch of the China Affairs Board, returned to Amoy on Sunday. They had come here to consult with the Government regarding the Kulangsu affair. The Government is understood to have upheld their stand.

Diplomatic negotiations, according to Japanese press message from Amoy, are likely shortly to be resumed between the Japanese Consul-General and the foreign Consular body.

These negotiations, the message adds, will concern a reorganization of the Municipal Council of the International Settlement at Kulangsu, "specially since the Council authorities and the foreign Consular Body must realize the difficulties of the Chinese inhabitants owing to the abrupt rise in the prices of commodities resulting from the slump in the Chinese dollar and also in view of the Japanese ban on junk traffic between Kulangsu and the mainland."

The message continues: "In view, however, of the determined stand maintained by the Japanese authorities for the appointment of Japanese nationals as Municipal Council Secretary and Chief of Police, the nomination by the Chairman of the Peace Maintenance Commission of Chinese candidates to fill the three vacancies in the Council, and the enfranchisement of Formosans, there will hardly be a chance for success for the new negotiations unless the foreign Consular body sees its way clear to accepting the Japanese proposals."—Reuter.

Japan Has Nothing To Fear

Anglo-French Co-operation In Far East Can Be Met, States Navy Minister

Tokyo, June 19.

Japan has "nothing to fear" from Britain and France in the Far East, Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, Navy Minister, told the press today on his way back from a trip to the Japan seaboard.

He admitted that he had heard rumours of an Anglo-French agreement for naval co-operation in Eastern waters.

The Navy Minister expressed the opinion that the Tientsin impasse would be settled by local negotiation. He characterized fears that the Anglo-Japanese dispute may spread to other concessions and settlements as "misgivings of those on the passive end."

No change in the Japanese policy towards the Kulangsu question was expected by Admiral Yonai, who was confident that some development would soon take place in Amoy following the return there of Mr. Goro Uchida, Japanese Consul-General, who visited Tokyo recently for a brief consultation with high Japanese officials.

Japan's policy towards reopening the Yangtze to general navigation, the Navy Minister declared, had already been determined.

"We must first take into consideration strategic requirements. Japan is now fighting in earnest. It seems to me that there is basic difference in the opinions of a nation earnestly engaged in warfare and those of countries which have no relation to such fighting," he remarked.—Domei.

New Polo Arrangements

By "The Chaser"

At a meeting of the Committee of the Shanghai Polo Club, it was decided that Alec Siemssen's handicap be raised from one to two. It was also decided that the Army Cup tournament be played as a "double-ender" tournament instead of "knock-out".

The allocation of the ground has also been altered and the schedule is now as follows:—

Monday—Open for players of any handicap.

Tuesday—High Handicap Players (two and over) to be given preference.

Wednesday—Low Handicap players (one and under) to be given preference.

Thursday—Ground closed.

Friday—Low Handicap Players (one and under) to be given preference.

Saturday—Before 4.30 p.m. for players with handicaps of 1 and under after 4.30 p.m. for high handicap players of 2 and over. Matches will be arranged.

Sunday—For players with handicap of one and under.

U.S.C. Wins N.C.A.A. Track Meet

Los Angeles, June 19.

The strongest University of Southern California track and field team in Trojan history amassed a total of 86 points today to run away with the 18th annual N.C.A.A. track meet. Stanford was second with 46¾ points. United Press.

British Property May Not Be Respected

Tientsin, June 19.

Should Britain resort to economic pressure against Japan, stated a Japanese Army spokesman today, the Japanese authorities in the field are of the opinion that they would be automatically released from their obligation to protect and to respect British property in China.

"The Japanese forces in the field," he said, "have repeatedly undergone inconveniences in tactical and defence operations so as to uphold their Government's assurances that third-party property in China would be respected and protected." This would become inapplicable in the case of British property in the event of British economic measures against Japan, he indicated.—Domei.

Full Payment on Bonds Denied in Chungking

Drawing to Be Held as Usual, Says Ministry

Chungking, June 19.

Chinese press reports that the Chinese Government will continue payment of principal and interest on domestic bonds secured on surplus of the Chinese Maritime Customs, such as the Consolidation (Fuhsing) and Gold (Kingchang) bonds, are denied by a spokesman of the Ministry of Finance.

The Chinese Government, he asserts, will not make payment of principal and interest on bonds secured on the Customs surplus, whether domestic or foreign.

The seventh drawing of the Consolidation Bonds, the spokesman states, will take place as usual on July 21, but no payment will be made.

It is possible for holders of coupons of drawn bonds to obtain loans from banks, using the coupons of drawn bonds as security.

Chinese press reports had stated that, in order to prevent large amounts of Chinese currency entering Japanese-controlled areas, payments would be made in Chungking, while payments in Shanghai would be made in the form of "remittance permits."

The payment falling due on July 31, it was added, totalled $56,603,500. —Reuter.

Gypsies in Bohemia to Be Put to Work

Penitentiary Labour Camps Now Proposed

Prague, June 19.

The agricultural committee of the Czech National Union proposes to establish as soon as possible penitentiary labour camps. The establishment of such camps, it will be recalled, had been ordered by the Beran government before the German occupation but had been postponed through political developments.

The above committee now declares that crimes by gypsies, beggars and tramps in various parts of Bohemia and Moravia had not decreased lately and that therefore strong measures should be taken. The inmates of these camps should be engaged in road and railway building as well as in river regulation and soil cultivation work.—Trans-Ocean.

French Commanders on Way to Singapore

Saigon, June 18.

En route to Singapore for a conference on co-ordination of French and British forces in the Far East, General Maurice Martin, Commander-in-Chief of the Indo-China Forces, arrived by air from Hanoi today.

Vice-Admiral J. Decoux, Commander-in-Chief of the French China Seas Fleet, will also attend the Singapore conference with British military and naval leaders.—Havas.

German Trotting Derby

Berlin, June 19.

The German trotting derby, which carries a prize of 60,000 Marks, was won at Ruhleben by the hot favourite Dachs, driven by the well-known Charlie Mills.

Second place, four lengths back, was won by Lautrec driven by Spiess, while third place was taken by Jule driven by Dieffenbacher.

This is the eighth time that Charlie Mills has won the trotting derby.—Trans-Ocean.

Scandanavia Wants To Be Left Alone

Swedish, Norwegian and Danish Premiers Address Labour Meeting

Oslo, June 19.

The Norwegian, Swedish and Danish Premiers addressed a labour meeting in Frederikstand, County of Oestfold, outlining the views of their Cabinets on the political situation.

The speech by the Norwegian Premier, J. Nygaardsvold, culminated in the categoric declaration that Norway's policy was democratic and neutral.

P. A. Hansson, the Swedish Premier, stressed the political stability of the northern countries where peace, freedom and democracy were landmarks of the development.

The Danish Premier, Th. A.M. Stauning, emphasized that the northern nations disliked Communism as well as other foreign movements and desired neither a dictatorship, anarchy nor a world revolution. The northern countries were independent and desired neither economic nor military alliances with other states. They were a neutral bloc which renounced force against other countries as long as these did not violate the northern neutrality.—Trans-Ocean.

Rumania Will Not Cede Any Territory

Bulgaria's Demands Not To Be Satisfied

Silistria, June 18.

Hopes recently expressed in Sofia that Rumania might offer to cede part of the Dobrudja to Bulgaria as a condition of the latter's entry into the Balkan Entente, were answered in the negative by M. Titeanu, a leading member of the Rumanian Government, in a speech today at the unveiling of a statue to King Ferdinand I.

"There is too much spoken about the minorities settled in Rumania," he declared, "but too little about the Rumanian minorities outside our frontiers—frontiers which are consecrated by history and justice."—Reuter.

Historical Claim

Bucharest, June 18.

M. Titeanu declared that for centuries Dobrudja had been Rumanian territory and that it was organically tied to Rumania by its natural development. It would be better, he urged, to collaborate with other states—and not least in economic affairs—to bring about rapprochement, instead of engaging in useless polemics that did nothing to promote peace.—Trans-Ocean.

German Commercial Body Visiting Spain

Madrid, June 18.

Great significance was attached today to the movements of the German commercial mission that is at present visiting here. The group is under Herr Hellmuth Wohltat, Reich's economics expert. The visit is held to be a "preliminary, research trip" which "aims to ascertain possibilities for German participation in the reconstruction of Spain." Herr Wohltat is meanwhile making contacts with the Spanish authorities and is making inquiries about the country's mineral resources, of iron pyrites, manganese, mercury and lead.—Havas.

Bomb Causes Panic In Prague

Prague, June 19.

Five persons were seriously wounded and 21 others received minor injuries when an infernal machine exploded in a Jewish cafe here Saturday, belated reports disclosed last night.

Eight-five customers in the cafe at the time of the explosion were thrown into panic. Some person, not identified, left a time bomb under a table. One woman had her less blown off.—United Press.

Japan to Foster China Cotton Growing

Huge Quantity of Seeds To Be Distributed

Tokyo, June 19.

With a view to ensuring self-sufficiency in raw cotton in the future, the Overseas Ministry has formulated a three-year cotton programme aiming at annual cotton crops of 500,000,000 lb.

In accordance with the programme, the Overseas Ministry has immediately taken the necessary steps to send 5,000,000 lb. of cotton seeds to Tsingtao, 1,500,000 lb. to Shansi, and 3,000,000 lb. to Tientsin, which will be distributed through the North China Cotton Cultivation Association to cotton growers.

The Ministry has further embarked upon the technical guidance of cotton cultivation in Central China, with Shanghai and Nanking as the centre, and distributing approximately 1,000,000 lb. of cotton seeds through the newly-organized Cotton Cultivation and Improvement Society.—Reuter.

Herr Hitler Sees Envoy Of Arabian King

Berlin, June 19.

An announcement that Herr Hitler yesterday received Khalid at Hud, special emissary of King Ibn Saud, of Saudi Arabia, has surprised the public.

The meeting was at Berchtesgaden, where the Reichsfuehrer and his guest had tea together. The conversation lasted a considerable time, but nothing has been revealed as to its nature.—Reuter.

Empress Dowager Sees Foreign Envoys

Tokyo, June 19.

The newly-accredited Argentine Minister, M. Rodolfo Moreno, and the new Mixican Minister, M. Primo Villa Michel, were granted an audience this morning by the Empress Dowager.—Reuter.

Czech People Will Not Be Crushed

Dr. Benes Makes Speech In United States

Hartford, June 19.

Dr. Eduard Benes, former President of Czechoslovakia, delivered a fighting speech here last night at Trinity College commencement exercises.

He told an audience which included representatives of Czech groups from the eastern states that Germany would never succeed in dominating the Czech people, despite the dismemberment of the Czech republic by Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

Some of the Czech representatives, dressed in their national costume, were seen quietly brushing away their tears when Dr. Benes proclaimed the Czechs' determination to regain "our national spirit of freedom."

"The Germans have not succeeded in imposing a rule of how to live and think on the Czechoslovak people," he said. "Our nation won't be crushed."—United Press.

Apartment House Fire Kills Three

Sixty Jump or Flee to Safety in Time

Providence, June 19.

Three persons were burned to death and sixty others barely jumped or fled to safety here last night in a spectacular apartment house fire.

The three victims were trapped before firemen cloud reach them and were burnied to death. Five others were rushed to hospitals for treatment of burns and bruises.

Police ordered an immediate investigation of the fire.—United Press.

A GIRL trapeze artiste in Bertram Mills' circus at Tonbridge recently fell 30 ft. into the audience, but sustained only a few bruises. The other girls in the act saw her crash but in the circus tradition carried on with their acrobatics. The girl, Miss Jane Steele, aged 20, was hanging from a ladder trapeze when she slipped and crashed on to a wooden passage way among the audience.

SKINNY, WEAK, NERVOUS, RUNDOWN . . . !

How FOOD IODINE and MINERALS Build Thin, Worn-Out, Nervous People Into Strong, Red-Blooded Men and Women,

Without the Use of Drugs!

"VIKELP" Tablets, Amazing New Mineral Concentrate from the Pacific Ocean, Rich in MINERALS and FOOD IODINE, Feed Starved Glands, Must Build Rich Red Blood, Correct MALNUTRITION, Put on pounds of Solid "Stay-There" Flesh, Give Steady Nerves and Day Long Energy.

Here's new hope and encouragement for thousands of tired, weak, worn-out, haggard-looking men and women, whose energy and strength have been sapped by overwork and worry—who are nervous, irritable, always half-sick and ailing. Nutrition experts say the principal cause of these rundown conditions is GLANDS STARVING FOR MINERALS AND FOOD IODINE. When these glands don't work properly, all the food in the world can't help you. It just isn't turned into flesh. The result is, you stay "too thin," nervous, tired-out and rundown. The most important gland—the Thyroid, and other tiny hidden glands which actually control body-weight and strength—need a definite ration of the 12 life-giving MINERALS and FOOD IODINE all the time (not to be confused with chemical iodides which often prove toxic). Only when the system gets an adequate supply of FOOD IODINE and MINERALS can you regulate metabolism—the body's process of converting digested food into firm flesh, new health, strength and energy.

To get these 12 vital minerals and FOOD IODINE demanded by the body—yet so sadly lacking in the foods we eat—in convenient, assimilable form, take "VIKELP" Tablets, made of an amazing Pacific Ocean seaplant, now recognized as the world's richest source of these precious substances.

Your body is not only rejuvenated but malnutrition, faulty metabolism, constipation, gastritis, rheumatism and other systemic ailments as shown in the panel, are corrected or disappear entirely. They build up resistance against Malaria. Whatever you have tried before take "VIKELP" Tablets for 10 days and notice the difference. Notice how it makes you feel wonderful, eat, sleep and work better—increases vitality and vigour. Watch flattering extra lbs. appear in place of scrawny hollows.

Obtainable everywhere.

BE WISE — ALKALISE!

For an Acid Condition—For Pains and Aches Get Quick and Efficient Relief—Use Alka-Seltzer

What can you do for an acid condition which results in the common, everyday symptoms of acid and sour stomach, gas, heartburn, headaches, muscular pains, etc.? Take Alka-Seltzer. This entirely new and modern form of medication is based on a time-tested and proved principle. Alka-Seltzer successfully combines the two agents which doctors for years have prescribed separately. Note carefully what Alka-Seltzer does for you.

First, Alka-Seltzer gives quick relief from pain by its analgesic agent (sodium acetyl salicylate). At the same time, its alkalising ingredients alkalise and thus help neutralise the excess acid condition.

Hence you feel better almost immediately. You look better and regain your enthusiasm for work, for play. There is nothing quite like Alka-Seltzer, so quick, so efficient and so safe. Not a laxative, but a double acting medication. Get Alka-Seltzer today—keep it on hand always, at home and at work. Use Alka-Seltzer the next time you are bothered with sour stomach, headache, and any common ailment associated with an excess acid condition.

IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

STICKING IT OUT

Today is an interesting anniversary in connection with Tientsin history, for it was on June 20 that the massacre of 1870 occurred, while in connection with the Boxer Rebellion, in which the northern Treaty port was concerned, the order for the extermination of foreigners was given in Peking on the same date in 1900. This year the same city sees a portion of itself reduced to a state of siege in which one of the Allies in the Boxer Expedition is seeking to inflict gross injury upon the nationals of two other Allies because of a dispute with one of them, a dispute which has about it on the Japanese side nothing whatever commendable from either the point of honour, or that of justice. The attempt by Tokyo official circles, as indicated in the Domei message from that city appearing in these columns yesterday, to cover up what has been admitted to be a much wider issue than that of handing over four Chinese accused of murder, but against whom there is in the British view insufficient proof, will carry not one iota of conviction to those who seek to approach consideration of the matter from any except the strabismic point of view of the Japanese. It has been shown that the Chinese accused are demanded merely as the specious excuse for a course of action calculated seriously to threaten, if not actually imperil, British interests in the Far East That is the only possible view which can, in the light of all the facts now available, be accepted; to accept any other would be to deny the realities of the situation. When the history of the past twenty-three months is reviewed it is clear that the policy of the Japanese actually in charge of the operations in China has been dominated by an anti-British sentiment. Not so much because of the assistance which Great Britain, acting completely within her rights as a neutral, has been affording China,—for one of the largest suppliers of war material to that government has been one of the nations united with Japan in the Anti-Comintern Pact,—but because the ultimate aim of the Japanese has been the total destruction of foreign rights and interests in this country.

It will be remembered that on several occasions anti-British sentiment has been allowed to flare up in Japan itself, as witness during the early months of the hostilities the mass meetings demanding war with Great Britain, carefully suppressed by the authorities, and now permitted to flare up with the wildest assertions against the conduct of that nation which Japan first desires to eliminate. Keeping this particular factor in mind, it is possible to consider the mutual bearing of the Tientsin and Kulangsu incidents upon each other. When the Japanese sought by force to take over control of Kulangsu, an international settlement, almost identic protests were lodged by the British, French and United States Governments, and what at one time seemed likely to be a rapid seizure of the island was prevented by the action of the three protesting Powers. The internationality of Kulangsu has up to the present at least ensured the continuance of its status, and may continue to be its best protection, for the Japanese Government is anxiously desirous of doing as little as possible to antagonize American feeling which has already been aroused to such an extent that all the Japanese devices to promote a friendlier understanding have come to naught. Tientsin presented a somewhat different, and to Japanese eyes at least a rather simpler problem. Had it been possible for the Japanese to have isolated the British Concession alone, today's telegrams indicate that she would have done so, but the propinquity of the French Concession to the British necessitated its inclusion in any siege which was contemplated of the British. If it had been possible to have excluded the French Concession from the results of any hostile act Japan contemplated against the British, there is no doubt that the Japanese would have done so, if only for the purpose of doing nothing to make Anglo-French understanding in the Far East not quite so complete as fortunately it is.

To the Japanese it seemed that, as different considerations applied in the two places, it might be possible to drive wedges between the Americans, British and French, and at the same time divert public attention in Japan itself from the fact that despite practically two years' warfare, what was to have been a matter of a few months now presents the likelihood of taking two or even three years more. The Japanese armies have overrun vast areas of China, but their occupation is of the scantiest, their authority running little further than the range of a rifle bullet. The Army has to have something to present to Japan to justify the blood, and money which has been lavishly poured out in an attempt to secure a military political, and economic hegemony over a country upon which it has long had its eyes. The Chinese have not been particularly accommodating in the matter, and the indications are that the Japanese Army would like to present the British and French Concessions in Tientsin to their nation as an earnest of their achievement, and a promise of bigger things to come. If they can do that by the anniversary of the Lukouchiao incident so much the better; it would serve to allay for the time being at any rate that anxiety and disapproval, which is felt in certain sections of Japanese public opinion, of the policy adopted by the Japanese army in China. Hence the shameful behaviour of the Japanese in Tientsin and the indignities they seek to heap upon unoffending British civilians in the hope of bringing about as early a surrender as possible. Even the Japanese admit, however, that the British in the northern port are digging themselves in and preparing to continue resistance. They would not be British if they did not do so, and though this struggle must become increasingly serious as the days progress, they may be expected to stick it out to the bitter end.

France's Loss

General sympathy will be felt with the French Navy over the loss of the submarine Phenix and her gallant crew, whose sudden disappearance off Indo-China occurred last week. Whether the oil discovered floating on the surface of the sea did in fact indicate the spot where the submarine was lost will probably forever remain a matter of speculation, for the depths of the sea around that area are such as to make recovery of a lost submarine if not impossible at least of the greatest difficulty. The fact that obsequies have been performed over the place where the vessel disappeared indicates that the French Government has recognized that the unfortunate crew has been killed. These men died just as much for their country as if they had met their deaths in the heat of warfare. Submersions have to be performed in the ordinary course of preparation for actual war, and though they have been lost in times of peace, they have nevertheless made the great sacrifice in the interests of their country, and the greatest sympathy will be felt with France over the loss of so many of her gallant sons. Unfortunately the inability to raise the vessel deprives the French authorities of the means of discovering what caused the foundering of the Phenix. The sacrifice of the crew, therefore, has no compensating features, for investigation will not have the opportunity of increasing safeguards which might be perfected as a result. There appears to be nothing sinister about the loss of four submarines during recent months, as some people with vivid imaginations appear to think. There is no suggestion of anything of the kind, and at the present time not a tittle of evidence to show that these accidents are the result of that sabotage which is so greatly feared in some countries. It is more probable that all of them are the result of those "acts of God" against which no human ingenuity can hope to prevail, and while superstition suggests that tragedies such as these always run in certain numbers, it is to be hoped that the tale of submarine accidents has now been told, and that, at any rate for some time to come, the world will be spared recurrences of these disasters.

The First Test

England has paid the West Indies the compliment of selecting one of the strongest possible sides to represent the country in the first Test match, which will be begun at Lords on June 24. The record of the visitors to date has not been particularly impressive, but it is a well-known fact that they always do better in Test matches than in others, and that also they have needed time to accustom themselves to the different conditions that prevail in the home country. Yorkshire is, as usual, well represented in the English side. With Hutton to preserve the reputation of the champion county with the bat, Verity and Bowes, both of whom have shown fine form this season, should be able to do the same thing with the ball; while there is no better wicket-keeper than Wood, though his prowess with the bat has been uncertain and cannot be compared with that of Ames, who has been allowed to rest. Gimblett of Somerset is making his first appearance in a Test. His record this season has been remarkable, fully bearing out the prophets who, when he first joined his county team, foretold a great future for the tall and powerful youth. W. R. Hammond was a certainty as captain, while many will be pleased to see that Dennis Compton, the young Middlesex player, has again been given a chance. Compton would probably have accompanied the M.C.C. side to South Africa last winter, had he not been a first class football player as well as cricketer, and thus have winter commitments he could not get out of. He, with Paynter and Hardstaff, should put England in a strong position so far as scoring is concerned. Copson will be sharing the duties of fast bowler with Bowes. He, too, has been doing uncommonly well this season for Derbyshire. Wright, with his leg spins, makes up the balance of the attack. Though Wright was not a great success during the South African tour, the Australians have good cause to know that he can be very dangerous on home wickets.

"Safety First" Week

Judging by the general opinion of the first two days of Shanghai's "Safety First" Week, the organizers of this campaign to minimize accidents, make Shanghai streets safer and instill a greater idea of traffic conduct and control for the benefit of the public, are doing a good job of work. It is too early to pass any judgment on the campaign or its results, but the general impression is that it has stirred the public conscience to the urgent needs of the situation which the organizers are trying to correct. It can safely be said that never before has such a large volume of co-operation been obtained for a problem of community interest and importance. The police, transport companies, hire car garages, theatres and organizations interested in traffic conditions are acting as guides, propagandists and teachers, but a much more valuable form of assistance is the voluntary efforts of the general public, represented by boy scouts and other interested people, in doing their bit at street corners, distributing leaflets, talking to rickshaw pullers and pedestrians and, on the whole, doing their best by personal approach and example to spread the principles on which the week's campaign is based. In the past, there has been a tendency to ignore that great, untapped volume of public co-operation in tackling community problems. The tendency has been to canalize efforts through interested parties leaving out of account that greater section of Shanghai whose support not only in traffic but other questions can be easily obtained by a frank and direct appeal rather than relying on official machinery to attain the desired end. In this respect, the organizers of the "Safety First" Week are to be congratulated, and if the week is successful—and there is no reason why it should not be so in view of widespread reaction to the organizers' efforts—then the traffic situation should show a marked improvement and another chapter of Shanghai's public spirit and the welfare of the city will have been written.

More Progress

THE Universal Betterment Guild recommends that adults should not be admitted to see films (with a few Continental exceptions) unless accompanied by children.

Too many adults are being puzzled by intricacies of plot and love interest. Children should be present to explain these.

The alternative of educating adults up to the Child Standard is too expensive at present.

Bit About Dialect

SOMEBODY, the other day, was complaining that Cockney speech is never correctly transcribed, writes a British columnist. So I opened my ears in street and omnibus and picked up the following variations from—shall I say?—the B.B.C. standard....

Faw-een (fourteen); ockshirry (auxiliary); dunnit (doesn't it); wa ha sah-i (what I say); waw isah-i (what did he say); raow unkaw-a (round the corner); nee-ells (needles); d'yawna gaow (do you want to go).

We seem, in London, to be increasingly slipshod in our speech, and more nasal. By the way, I wonder if the old Cockney transpostion of "v" and "w"—as in werry and vidder—anywhere persists.

Mistaken

MR. Joseph P. Kennedy, the U. S. Ambassador, told a story about his son James in a speech at the annual banquet of the Honourable Society of Cymmrodorion, in London.

Jimmy, he said, had explored the Welsh coast, and it seemed that one day he went ashore after a tempestuous voyage from a neighbouring port. He was wearing a pull-over sweater with his school numerals "1930" sewn on the back.

On the way into town he noticed that he was being followed by a fairly good-sized crowd of people. This crowd got larger as they went along, until finally Jimmy began to get a bit worried. He thought that he had better ask a policeman what he had done to attract such attention.

The policeman looked first at Jimmy then at the crowd, then at the numbers on Jimmy's back.

"You had better take off that sweater, sir," he said, "they think that you are an escaped criminal!!"

New Delicate Situation Arises in Tientsin

Wires Round Concessions Said to Have Been Charged; British Consul's Proposals Rejected; Chinese Municipal Employees Threatened

Tientsin, June 19.

MANY intricate problems now confront the British authorities in Tientsin, and a new and delicate situation has now arisen which is causing grave concern. Many families of Chinese employees of the Council, and specially the Concession Police, are living outside the foreign areas, and it appears that a census has been taken of these families by the Japanese-controlled administration in Tientsin.

Letters are also reported to have been sent to these employees, stating that unless they resign forthwith, drastic consequences will follow, including the death of their families. It is learned on excellent authority that the manner in which the letters were written and delivered suggests that the Japanese Gendarmerie were behind the whole affair.

The majority of the Council's Chinese policemen are descendants or relatives of the men who saw service with the British forces raised at Weihaiwei during the Boxer Rebellion, or who served in France with the Labour Coros during the Great War.

They are noted for their fine qualities and their discipline, but it is thought that even the stoutest hearts among them will quail in face of such a serious and real threat. The Council is therefore confronted with a most serious situation, and is in danger of losing an appreciable number of their stalwart preservers of law and order. The clerical staff of the Council has been approached in a similar manner.

Boundary Wires to be Charged

A semi-official Japanese statement issued this afternoon states that the Japanese military authorities have announced that the live wire installed round the British and French Concessions some months ago will be charged electrically at 8 p.m. today. Some observers are wondering as to the significance of this notice, as the wire hitherto has been frequently charged by the Japanese without any previous notice.

Following further incidents involving Britons today, of an even more serious nature than before, the British Consul-General, Mr. E. G. Jamieson, issued a notice requesting Eritons not to leave the Concessions unless this was vitally necessary. There are at present no signs of any relaxation of the stringent restrictions on the borders of the Concessions.

On the contrary, a request for such a relaxation is reported in semi-official Japanese circles to have been turned down by the Japanese Consul-General in Tientsin, Mr. Tashiro. The request was made by Mr. E. G. Jamieson in a personal interview with Mr. Tashiro at noon today.

Mr. Jamieson complained of the shortage of foodstuffs in the British Concession, and asked for a relaxation of the restrictions on provisions now being enforced by the Japanese. The Japanese Consul-General is said to have pointed out, in rejecting Mr. Jamieson's requests, that the Japanese authorities had taken independent action only after the British authorities had "refused to co-operate with the Japanese authorities in maintaining peace and order in North China."

Therefore, Mr. Tashiro is reported to have declared, the Japanese authorities would continue to pursue their present policy. Mr. Jamieson also pointed out the discrimination allegedly shown by the Japanese authorities in examining and searching pedestrians and traffic. He requested that equal treatment be given Britons with that accorded to nationals of other foeign Powers.

Economic Pressure

A hint that, if Britain were to resort to such a measure as economic pressure against Japan, the Japanese authorities on the spot might "rightfully consider themselves released from their obligations to respect Britain's rights and interests in China" was given in a statement made today by a spokesman for the Japanese military authorities. He recalled that the Japanese Government had repeatedly enunciated its policy to respect the rights and interests of Third Powers in China.

Accordingly, he declared, the Japanese front line forces had faithfully observed the Government's enunciated policy, at the sacrifice of great strategic advantages.

The statement promises that sacrifices will be made by the Japanese authorities in order to minimize the inconveniences which Americans, Germans and other nationals, having no concessions of their own at Tientsin, may experience as a result of the Japanese isolation of the foreign areas.

It refers Third Powers to their nationals in Tientsin to ascertain what treatment they are receivinig at the hands of the Japanese authorities.

Declaring that the Japanese authorities have no intention whatever of throwing out of employment those law-abiding Chiniese who depend on the British and French Concessions for their living, the statement adds that the authorities are paying full attention to their plight, and are giving them jobs.

"Challenge to Japan"

In an interview with Reuter today, Mr. A. E. Tipper, Chairman of the British Municipal Council, vehemently denied a Japanese report appearing in the press here today alleging that the British Council had banned the transport of flour stored in the British Concession to outside areas, and describing this step as a challenge to Japan.

London Hastening Moscow Negotiations So As to Be Free For Tientsin Affair

London, June 18.

Little hope remained today for a compromise in the Anglo-Japanese Tientsin dispute, according to Whitehall quarters here.

They said the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Cabinet would meet tomorrow to consider measures of reprisal and precaution, the latter to avert any dangerous clashes that might otherwise be provoked by minor incidents.

The Ministers would most likely decide to enforce the measures adopted unless an amicable settlement on a local basis was reached within a few days.

Economic sanctions would be progressively put into operation. They would include:

1. Denunciation of the Anglo-Japanese trade agreement of 1911.
2. Imposition of heavy duties on Japanese goods imported into British colonies.
3. Institution of quotas for imports of Japanese goods into the British Empire.
4. Enforcement of measures against the Japanese currency and in support of the Chinese currency.

No request for support has as yet been made to Washington, for Britain wishes to refrain from any steps that might be held in the United States as "pressure." But American adherence is anticipated if Britain initiates strong action.

Moscow Negotiations

It was stated in some quarters that the Foreign Affairs Committee meeting tomorrow would also discuss ways to speed up negotiations with Moscow.

The early conclusion of an agreement with Russia was held to be of special importance following receipt of reports that Germany would make supreme efforts to neutralize the U.S.S.R. in Europe by means of proposals for non-aggression and trade accords.

The Committee would study the latest memo received from the Soviet Government through Sir William Seeds, British Ambassador in Moscow.

In this memo, the Soviets emphasized the vital need for "unreserved automatic guarantees" covering their north-western borders just as similar pledges covered other cases of direct or indirect aggression.

The British Government, it was understood, sent new instructions to Sir William Seeds this evening, however.

It suggested a new, simpler formula in respect of protection for the U.S.S.R.'s north-western frontier. This new scheme was evolved during consultations held with Paris since Friday.—Havas.

Bus Hurtles Down from Mountain Road

Many Killed in Accident Near Vienna

Vienna, June 19.

Ten persons were killed and sixteen seriously injured in an appalling omnibus accident which occurred yesterday evening on the Gross Glockner, Germany's highest mountain.

While descending the mountain from the famous Alpine resort of Heiligenblut, the driver was about to take one of the steep hairpin bends when for some unknown reason he lost control over the omnibus which crashed through the road rampart and fell sixty feet down the side of the mountain. Most of the occupants of the car who had left Salzburg in the afternoon were peasants from Thuringia. They had been attending the Agricultural Congress in Vienna. —Trans-Ocean.

British May Buy Japan's Salmon Surplus

London, June 19.

British firms are negotiating with Japanese agents in London for the purchase of 68,000 cases of Japanese canned salmon for £67,000, the "Sunday Dispatch" reported yesterday. The paper said the deal, which is expected to be closed within a few days, would enable Japan to dispose of her entire salmon surplus for this season.—United Press

Malaria in Belgrade

Belgrade, June 19.

One third of the population of the Yugoslav capital is suffering from malaria, according to medical estimates. The cases are, however, not of a serious nature. The epidemic is believed to be due to recent floods. The royal guards have been provided with face veils as a protection against mosquitoes conveying germs. —Trans-Ocean.

Atlantic Clipper Lands

Lisbon, June 18.

Completing the trans-oceanic part of its first passenger flight to Europe, the Atlantic Clipper landed here at 6.44 p.m. today, coming from Port Washington and Horta, in the Azores. Members of the crew and the 17 journalist passengers of the huge plane, found flying conditions to be good on the trip from Horta here. —Havas.

Boundaries to Be Electrified

Tientsin, June 19.

Wires strung round the British and French Concessions were to be charged with electricity at 9 p.m., according to a notice issued by the commander of the Japanese forces in Tientsin.

The notice was written in Chinese and in English.

Total length of the wires is 50 km. They will be charged with 220 volts.—Domei.

Prime Minister Talks to House On Tientsin

Britain Knows Reactions To Other Settlements

London, June 19.

The British Government were fully alive to the reactions of the present Tientsin dispute on the position of other British and international settlements in China, declared tre Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, in the House of Cofmons today in reply to a barrage of questions on the situation in Tientsin.

Great Britain, he added, was maintaining close touch with France and the United States.

Mr. Chamberlain said the British Government could not but believe that the Japanese Government shared their own desire not to widen the area of disagreement, or to render it more acute in an already difficult situation.

The Foreign Secretary, Lord Halifax, was seeing Mr. Shigemitsu, the Japanese Ambassador, today, and Sir Robert Craigie, the British Ambassador in Tokyo, was trying to clarify the situation with the Japanese Government.

Barrier restrictions in Tientsin, Mr. Chamberlain told the House, continued, and all British subjects were being held up at barriers, rigorously searched and, in some cases, subjected to indignities.

The entry of perishable foodstuffs was being delayed by rigid searching at the barriers, and continued, therefore, to be spasmodic. Normal supplies were reported to be reaching the market in the adjoining French Concession.

On the morning of June 18, Mr. Chamberlain continued, two British coastal vessels, came up the river to Tientsin without being stopped for search. Generally speaking, however, British vessels, including tugs and lighters, were being stopped and searched by the Japanese military authorities.

British Protests

The British Consul-General in Tientsin had addressed protests to his Japanese colleague, and Sir Robert Craigie had been instructed to take up these matters with the Japanese Government.

The general position was not yet clear. It would appear that the original demand for the handing over of four Chinese had been confused by the introduction of larger issues of general policy.

No formal representatives had been received from the Japanese Government on this subject and it was still hoped that a local settlement would be found possible.

Mr. Arthur Henderson, Labour member for the Kingswinford division of Staffordshire, asked if the British offer that the question of the four Chinese suspects should be settled by an international advisory committee still held good.

The Prime Minister: "Yes, that still holds good."

Mr. Anthony Eden, former Foreign Secretary, asked whether it could be assumed that it had been made clear from Mr. Chmberlain's statement, that all concerned now understood the British Government's intention to ensure the safe arrival of supplies of foodstuffs intended for British subjects in Tientsin.

Mr. Chamberlain: "Yes, we are enquiring into that point, and will take whatever steps may be necessary to ensure them supplies of foodstuffs."

Questioned regarding the British naval forces in the neighborhood of Tientsin, and the depth of the water in the river, Lieut.-Col. J. J. Llewellin, Civil Lord of the Admiralty, said that, owing to the depth of the water, the largest ship able to reach Tientsin was the escort vessel Lowestof (990 tons), which was now there.

It was not at present considered that other British men-of-war at a port 30 miles from Tientsin—the nearest point at which British warships were stationed—would be of value.

Such ships were available in North China waters as were required. Conditions as regards water depth was being regularly received.—Reuter.

Japanese Position

London, June 19.

"The British Government believe the Japanese Government share their own desire neither to widen the area of disagreement nor to render more acute the already difficult situation," Mr. Chamberlain continued. "At the same time, they are fully alive to the reactions the present dispute may have over the situation in other British or international settlements in China."—Havas.

Italian Warships Steam Out for Exercises

Rome, June 19.

The First Naval Squadron under Rear-Admiral Riccardi will leave Naples today for a fortnight's exercises off Spain, Portugal and Morocco. The exercises are described as "normal training." The squadron consists of two battleships, ten cruisers, twenty destroyers, and an unknown number of submarines.—Reuter.

Warship and Italian Steamship Collide

While turning round in the Whangpoo River yesterday afternoon, prior to leaving port for Dairen, the Italian coastal steamship, Amba Alagi, of the China Italian Navigation Co., which was being towed by two tugs, suddenly swung into the bows of the French cruiser Primauguet as the result of strong tidal water and wind. Little damage was sustained by the warship but the merchant ship was damaged and will remain in port for some days. Above pictures show views of the ships immediately after the collision. In the lower photograph the Amba Alagi has just swung away from the cruiser's bows after the impact.

Japanese Protest Over Alleged Action of H.M.S. Scarab

Man-of-War Stated to Have Landed Cargo at Wuhu Without Having Notified Authorities; British Denial

Nanking, June 19.

JAPANESE military authorities today filed a strong protest with the British naval authorities in Shanghai against the action of the British warship Scarab which allegedly landed goods at Wuhu on June 14 without giving notice to the Japanese authorities regarding the nature and quantity of the cargo.

Sailors on the warship were alleged to have pointed machine guns at a party of Japanese officers and privates which attempted to prevent the landing of the goods. Japanese military authorities demanded apologies and assurances that similar action would not take place in the future.

Action of the British warship violated an agreement between Japanese military and British naval authorities and it caused indignation among the former, the protest said.

Bloodshed was averted by the patience of the Japanese soldiers, the note declared.

The protest said that Japanese military and British naval authorities agreed on June 3 that if British warships desired to land cargoes at ports on the Yangtze they should inform the Japanese military authorities beforehand of the nature and quantity of the goods.

The note stated that the British warship violated the agreement by attempting to land a cargo at Wuhu at 9 o'clock in the morning of June 6 without giving previous notice to the Japanese authorities there. The vessel abandoned the attempt when the Japanese military authorities interfered, according to the note.

Cargo Landed

At about 9 a.m. on June 14, the note continued, the same warship landed a cargo at the wharf on the north side of the Butterfield & Swire godown without having given advance notice to the Japanese military authorities.

A Japanese sentry stationed at the north side of the godown tried to prevent the landing, the note said. Two boxes of goods were carried into the godown and 145 landed at the entrance, according to the protest.

The Japanese sentry reported the matter at once and about ten officers and privates hastened to the scene to investigate. They were threatened by sailors on the warship who pointed two machine guns at them, the note alleged. The bluejackets were armed, the note said.

The action was considered "very unfriendly," the note stated.

No advance notice of the ship's intention to land a cargo at Wuhu had been received by the Japanese, the note said. The commander of the Scarab stated that he had notified 2nd.-Lieut. Sato in the vicinity of the Butterfield & Swire wharf at Wuhu at about 11 o'clock in the morning of June 11, the note stated.

2nd Lieut. Sato did not go to the wharf on that day and never received any notice from the commander of the Scarab regarding the kind and quantity of the goods to be landed, the protest said in conclusion.—Domei.

Madame Chiang Warns United States

America May Endure What China Faces Today

New York, June 19.

Madame Chiang Kai-shek) warns the United States that unless America resolutely opposes aggressors, it will have to endure what China is enduring today perhaps within another generation, the American Committee of Non-Participation in Japanese Aggression said today.

The Committee published a letter from Madame Chiang written to a Wellesley College classmate. The wife of China's wartime leader sounded her warning in the letter.

Madame Chiang also vividly described the Japanese bombing raids carried out over Chungking on May 3 and 4.

She charged the raids were the "worst exhibition of cold-blooded mass murder the Japanese so far have been able to perpetrate."

China's First lady said the fatalities as a result of the two successive raids were at least 3,000.—United Press.

Saigon Mourns Victims of French Submarine Disaster

Homage Paid to 71 Men Who Died in Phenix; Impressive Mass Held on Board Cruiser Lamotte Piquet

Paris, June 18.

While the Governor-General of Indo-China, M. Jules Brevié, made a funeral oration over the very site of the Phenix submarine tragedy, all of Saigon was in mourning today for the 71 men who lost their lives in this, the worst U-boat disaster in the Far East.

A funeral service for the victims of the catastrophe was held on board the warship La Marne off Cam Ranh Bay, 190 miles from Saigon, just over the spot where the submarine was believed to nave foundered on Thursday, June 15.

M. Brevié attended this service, for he had rushed to Cam Ranh Bay as soon as he was informed that the Phenix had failed to return from a routine trip at the scheduled time. He participated in searches and followed all operations with constant attention.

In his oration today, he paid homage to the men who had met death in the submarine. He eulogised their "sacrifice for their country" and finally, in a few touching words, bade them Adieu.

Meanwhile, a most impressive mass was held on board the cruiser Lamotte Piquet, at the stern of which a holy chapel was improvised for the occasion.

Admiral Terraux, Commander-in-Chief of the Indo-China Fleet, Staff officers, delegations of sailors from other units of the Fleet, as well as the British, American, Italian, Japanese and Siamese Consuls, attended this service.

On land, all public buildings and residences of Saigon floated the tricolour at half-mast. People in the streets were silent and the very speed of life seemed to be slowed down.—Havas.

President Roosevelt Kept Informed

New York, June -9.

The State Department today denied the report that Great Britain and France have approached the United States with a plan for three-Power action in view of Japan's moves against international settlements in China, according to the Washington correspondent of the "New York Times."

The plan is reported to envisage co-operation in strengthening naval units in foreign waters. President Roosevelt, however, the paper adds, is being kept informed of all developments.—Reuter.

King and Queen on Return Voyage

Their Majesties Rest As Empress Leaves Ice-Berg-Zone; Burst of Speed

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Aboard the Empress of Britain
June 18.

The King and Queen were resting, after their greatest personal adventure of the tour, when the liner emerged safely today from the ice-berg zone.

This was a tour of the three escorting cruisers on Saturday night at St. Johns, Newfoundland.

Their Majesties went aboard a ferry-boat towards the Glasgow, but owing to a strong wind, the cruiser was ordered to leave her moorings alongside other cruisers five miles down the bay, and to proceed to meet the ferry-boat.

As the Glasgow approached, the Royal couple were transferred aboard a small naval motorboat to go alongside the cruiser.

After bumping and ploughing through the waves, the engines suddenly stopped, and it was found that the propeller had been caught in fishing nets.

For several minutes the boat drifted helplessly until another Navy boat came alongside and took the King and Queen to the warship, where they clambered up a steep companion-way to the deck.

Afterwards, the party re-embarked on a heaving motor-boat and sped towards the 9,100-ton Southampton.

Waves crashing over the boat soaked all members of the party, who were unable to cram into the only tiny cabin in the boat.

Despite the bad weather, Their Majesties were determined not to disappoint the officers and crews of the cruisers, and went through the whole programme.

After visiting the 9750-ton cruiser Berwick, which was formerly on the China Station, the King and Queen returned, wet but cheerful, to the Empress of Britain.

Royal Liner Slows Down

June 19.

The Royal liner slowed down today after an initial burst of speed for 20 hours. The speed dropped from 24 knots to 20 knots, which is more comfortable for Their Majesties. Nevertheless, the ship continues to roll in a freezing wind.

In order to enable those aboard to have a much needed rest, the ship's clocks are being put forward during the afternoon.

Prayers were offered yesterday at Divine Service for peace and for the able-seaman, Samuel Batts, who fell overboard on Saturday while fixing the covers of the life-boats on the Empress of Britain. In spite of prompt rescue efforts, the man was drowned.—Reuter.

Concessions in China Will Not Be Sacrificed

London and Paris Watching Situation Intently; Washington Follows Developments

Washington, June 18.

POINTING out that American interests were also suffering from the Japanese blockade of the Tientsin British and French Concessions, the "Washington Star," in a leader today charged that the measure was designed to test the readiness of the Western Powers to challenge Japan's New Order in Asia policy.

The situation "provoked by Japan's blockade of the British and French Concessions in Tientsin is one affecting American interests in hardly a less degree because on the outcome depends the future status of all foreign economic interests in China," the "Washington Star" commented in its editorial.

Tokyo has plainly decided to make the Tientsin situation a showdown to test the readiness of the Western Powers to challenge the Japanese New Order in East Asia in which lies the root of the undeclared war on China, the editorial added.

It was problematical to what extent the United States would support with parallel purposes the drastic measures threatened by Britain, the "Washington Star" said.

Recent public opinion in polls, however, clearly "manifested America's state of mind toward Japan's depredations in China and a new cynical content for international rights by disclosing the widespread and growing sentiment in favour of a boycott of Japanese goods plus a strict embargo on the shipment of war materials to China's invader-oppressor," the "Washington Star" pointed out.

The presence of Mr. Joseph Grew, United States Ambassador to Japan, in Washington was most timely and enhanced the prospects for wise decisions, the paper declared.

Mr. Grew, although stern in his dealings with the Japanese, has been openly lauded by Japanese for his fairness and is known to be highly popular with nearly all groups of Japanese politicans.—United Press.

"Constitute Acts of War"

New York, June 19.

"The Japanese measures in Tientsin constitute acts of war, whether the British admit it or not," the New York "Herald Tribune" stated this morning in a comment on the reports from Tokyo that the Japanese Government is in full agreement with the Japanese military authorities in Tientsin.

"These acts are directed also against Kulangsu and are threatening Shanghai," the paper added. "We have the assurance from Tokyo given to the press by competent quarters that the Japanese Imperial Government approves acts of war against a power with which it pretends to entertain amical relations, and that it proposes to permit its agents in China to persist in creating a state of war with this power. It is henceforth a problem set by the Japanese Government itself."

"The American people," concluded the "Herald Tribune," "cannot be proud of the material contributions brought by them in fact to the horrible Japanese adventure in China. It is now time to finish, for official Japan has become as mad as its army, and it is no longer any use to murmur sweet diplomatic nullities on treaties, rights and proprieties."—Havas.

Japan Wants Negotiations

London, June 19.

The latest news from Tokyo seems to suggest that the Japanese Government is searching for an opening for negotiation, says "The Times" today.

The semi-official statement issued on Saturday, it continues, marks a great improvement on the language of the manifesto published on June 13 by the Japanese army in North China, "which no self-respecting Power could possibly tolerate."

Nevertheless, it adds, it is pertinent to ask the meaning of the passage which seems to draw a distinction between the British policy and that of other Powers with interests in China.

"It is still too early," declares "The Times," "to assume that Japanese diplomacy has taken charge of the situation.

"If it has, so much the better. Otherwise the British Government may be trusted to act without hesitation in the defence of British interests in the Far East."

"Public opinion," concludes "The Times," "demands nothing less."

"Daily Telegraph" Urges Firmness

There is more than one way of making the Japanese lose "face," just as there is more than one way of exacting economic retribution from Japan for the unjustified pressure she is endeavouring to exercise, declares the "Daily Telegraph" today.

But it is essential, meanwhile, it continues, that the beleaguered inhabitants of Tientsin shall not be allowed to starve. Either the local Japanese must be diplomatically persuaded to relax the blockade, or food must be sent in a British warship.

American as well as British citizens are involved, the "Daily Telegraph" states, and the arrival of Admiral H. E. Yarnell (Commander-in-Chief of the United States Asiatic Fleet) may prove to be the turning point of the local crisis.

Saying that there is no excuse for yielding the Concessions at present, the newspaper adds that the "Imperialism of the Western Powers may have driven some hard bargains with the Chinese, but Japanese Imperialism does not drive bargains at all. Its object is to exploit the resources of China and her manpower not by treaties but by menace of the bayonet."—Reuter.

Chinese Active in Northern Honan

Blow Up Bridges Across Wai River; Government Planes Bomb Various Sectors

Chungking, June 19.

Chinese forces in North Honan are at present attacking Luaihuang and blowing up a pontoon bridge across the Wai River in order to prevent Japanese reinforcements from Changteh (Anyang) from reaching Luaihuang, according to a Chinese report.

No important development is reported in the fighting in Central Hupeh.

The Japanese forces, which have occupied Chienkiang, on the west bank of the Han River, are said to be making occasional raids on the villages south-west of this town.

The Chinese air force has been very active on the Kiangsi and Kwangtung fronts, according to a Chinese report.

Chinese aeroplanes, it is claimed, bombed the Japanese positions in the vicinity of Nanchang on June 14. The following day, the report adds, Chinese 'planes again appeared over Nanchang, this time bombing the Japanese positions to the south-west of the city.

Another Chinese report alleges that Chinese machines bombed the suburbs of Canton on June 11. Two bombs are said to have landed on the Naichun Hotel.

On the following day, the report states, Chinese aeroplanes raided Kiangtsun, on the Canton-Hankow railway, and blew up a railway bridge.

Yellow River Fords Captured

A lull is reported on the West Shansi front.

Chinese troops, according to Chinese reports received here today, have recaptured several Yellow River crossings. The Japanese forces are said to have been withdrawn in the direction of Lishih and Chungyang.

After ten days and nights of heavy fighting in South Shansi, the Japanese are reported to be withdrawing towards the Hsiahsien, Wenhsi and Yunchen areas.

The battle in South Shansi, however, is by no means over. The Japanese, according to Chinese information, are continuing to send reinforcements into southern Shansi, and military trains are reported to be holding up traffic on the Tungpu railway.

Fighting is said to have been particularly severe during the past ten days.

The Chinese claim to have inflicted over 6,000 casualties upon the Japanese. Chinese casualties are also stated to be heavy, including one regimental commander killed in action at Pinglu, one battalion commander killed at Kuwang, and one company commander killed at Maotsintu.—Reuter.

Police Open Fire on Unemployed Mob

Demonstrations Continue At Jamaica

Kingston, Jamaica, June 19.

Police fired a volley of shots into a mob of unemployed here yesterday in order to break up a demonstration.

The shots were fired after the band of jobless refused to leave the waterfront area. One of the unemployed men was shot in the shoulder and is not expected to live.

Meanwhile, scores of trucks filled with armed militia and patrolmen drove through the city in efforts to prevent further demonstrations. The city was calm last night after the clash on the waterfront.—United Press.

Alleged Manslaughter

Arrest Made After Death Of Lieut. Comper

London, June 19.

Samuel Reeves, a resident of Hythe, was charged today with the manslaughter of Flight-Lieutenant Comper, the well-known aeroplane designer.

Flight-Lieut. Comper died on admission to hospital at Hythe yesterday, after being picked up unconscious in a street in that town. He is thought to have been the victim of an attack.

Among the 'planes which Flight-Lieut. Comper designed during his lifetime was the Comper "Swift," a midget, single-engined, single-passenger machine which became popular in civil flying circles owing to its low price and running costs. —Reuter.

Conciliators Fail to Break Strike

San Francisco, June 18.

Federal conciliators failed today to break a deadlock which has closed the port of San Francisco to all waterfront commerce requiring the employment of dock checkers.

A meeting, which lasted only 45 minutes, found neither the Dock Clerks Employers Association or the Ship Clerks Association of the Congress of Industrial Organizations changing its stand.

The employers asked the removal of pickets from American-Hawaiian Steamship Company docks and the arbitration of a dispute involving the discharge of ten dock clerks after their refusal to accept a change from hourly to monthly pay status.—United Press.

Tinkler Inquest Concluded

Coroner Expresses Regret That Japanese Consular Court Ignores Request

Evidence was concluded in H.M. Coroner's Court yesterday morning into the circumstances surrounding the death of Mr. Richard Maurice Tinkler, labour superintendent at the China Printing & Finishing Co.'s Lun Chong mill at Pootung Point, who died in the General Hospital on June 7 following wounds received at the hands of Japanese marines at the mill premises on the previous morning. In adjourning the enquiry until today at 10.15 a.m. Mr. C. H. Haines, H.M. Coroner, expressed regret that a request from the Court to the Japanese Consular Court for the attendance of three members of the Japanese Naval Landing Party had been ignored.

"The usual request was sent from this Court," Mr. Haines stated, "to the Japanese Consular Court asking for the attendance of three members of the Japanese Naval Landing Party to give evidence in this inquest. It is a matter of regret that none of these members have appeared in this Court and I propose to consider the evidence and form my conclusion which I will deliver tomorrow (Tuesday) morning at 10.15 in this Court."

The last witness to give his testimony at the enquiry was Mr. Henry Hugh Thomas, H.M. Consul for Japanese Affairs, who told the Coroner that at 5 p.m. on June 6 the Japanese Consul-General, accompanied by a member of his staff, called to see the British Consul-General about the Tinkler affair. The Superintending Consul and witness were both present during the discussion, during the course of which Mr. Ford, H.M. Vice-Consul, telephoned from Pootung reporting his failure to obtain access to Mr. Tinkler and also that he had been informed by eye-witnesses that Tinkler had been bayonetted several times.

Witness thereupon suggested to his Consul-General that arrangements should be made for him to go at once to Pootung, accompanied by a foreign doctor. The British Consul-General asked the Japanese Consul-General whether in fact Tinkler had been bayonetted, the reply being that there was no information to that effect and that Tinkler's injuries had been caused by blows from the butt of a rifle, these injuries being believed not to be serious.

The British Consul-General then verbally requested that witness should be allowed to take a doctor across and at the same time handed to the Japanese Consul-General a formal written communication, which included an official request that a foreign doctor should be allowed to see Tinkler without delay if Tinkler's injuries were too serious to allow him to be moved. It also requested that early arrangements should be made for the transference of Tinkler into British custody and that in the meantime British officials should not be denied access to him.

The Japanese Consul-General undertook to refer the British Consul-General's requests to the competent Japanese authorities without delay. Nothing had been heard, however, from the Japanese side by the time Mr. Ford had returned from Pootung and had reported to witness shortly before 8 p.m. Mr. Ford's report as to Tinkler's condition was re-assuring but at about 10 p.m. witness received a telephone message from a member of the Japanese Consulate staff informing him that Tinkler's condition had suddenly become serious and was, in fact, now so grave that any relatives or close friends ought to be notified and would be allowed to see him.

Witness requested that he should be allowed to take a foreign doctor across and the request was readily agreed to. Subsequently a Japanese naval launch, in which the doctor and a director of the firm went to Pootung, was provided. Witness followed shortly afterwards in a Customs police launch. Upon arrival at Pootung he found that arrangements had been made to bring Tinkler across. Witness concluded his evidence with a statement that Lieut.-Commdr. Nojii and Lieut.-Commdr. Todoroki (Staff Officer) had showed every desire to afford full co-operation and that they had accompanied the party to the General Hospital, where they remained until the conclusion of the operation.

No Japanese Reply On Tinkler Case

London, June 19.

Referring to the death of Mr. R. M. Tinkler, British employee of the China Printing and Finishing Works, in Pootung following an incident with the Japanese, Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, stated in the House of Commons today that Lord Halifax (the Foreign Secretary) was awaiting a reply from the Japanese Government. Exchanges of views, he added, had taken place.—Reuter.

Guerillas Execute Bandit Leader

Man Who Preyed on Hungjao Villagers Shot

Kao Shwun-yu, notorious leader of a kidnapping gang operating in Hungjao, has been arrested by guerillas who also operate in that area and executed, according to a Chinese report. He is said to have victimized practically all well-to-do villagers living in the vicinity of the Hungjao Aerodrome.

Guerillas have served several warnings to him but he paid no attention to them. Last Saturday morning, the report states, he was arrested while drinking tea with some of his men in a tea house in Wukahong. Being unaware of the approach of guerillas, Kao was easily arrested.

After the execution, the guerillas are stated to have posted out posters denouncing Kao mentioning specifically the crimes Kao has committed. It is asserted that by posing as a guerilla leader Kao repeatedly forced people to pay taxes and kidnapped persons unwilling to pay. His actions soon attracted the attention of real guerillas operating in the area who decided to get rid of him.

London, June 19.

Despite the American radio experience with a "visitation from Mars" last year, the British Broadcasting Company will broadcast a 40 minute "air raid" next Friday.

The broadcast will include the sound of exploding bombs, shrieking sirens, the shouts of gunners and searchlight operators and other typical air raid noises.

Ships Collide in Whangpoo River

Primauguet and Italian Merchant Ship Involved In River Accident

When turning round with the aid of two tugs in the Whangpoo River shortly after 2 p.m. yesterday the Italian coastal steamship Amba Alagi came into collision with the French cruiser Primauguet. No serious damage was sustained by the warship, it was stated yesterday afternoon, although the smaller merchant vessel, which was due to leave port shortly afterwards, will have to remain in Shanghai for two or three days for the repair of rather extensive damage.

Owned by the Chinese Italian Navigation Co., of 93 Canton Road, the Amba Alagi was due to sail for Dairen and had proceeded upriver to turn around prior to leaving port. It was during this manœuvre that the vessel came into collision with the bows of the Primauguet, scraping off paint for a distance of many feet.

Questioned by a reporter yesterday afternoon an officer on the Italian vessel stated that as far as he knew there had been no other damage to the warship and that no official claim had been made to his company yesterday afternoon. It was further stated that the tidal water and heavy winds had caused the steamship suddenly to swerve from her course after leaving a wharf on the Pootung side of the river, where it had unloaded a cargo of coal.

Measuring only 367 feet in length with a tonnage of 2,333 tons, the Italian vessel suffered serious damage, the fourth hold, which bore the brunt of the impact, being badly stoved in while its bulwarks for a distance of 30 feet were badly smashed.

Captain O. Paus of the Amba Alagi stated that his vessel definitely would not be able to sail today. He added that the French cruiser had not sustained any serious damages apart from scratches and all such damages would be paid for by his company. Neither of the two tugs sustained any damage.

FUNERAL

Caporal Chef Le Coq

The funeral took place yesterday morning of the late Caporal Chef Rene le Coq of the French Army whose death occurred at St. Marie's Hospital on Friday at the age of 29 years. Mass was celebrated in the Church of St. Pierre, Avenue Dubail in the morning by the Rev. Father Chalain, S.J., in presence of a large turnout of the French Army and representations from the French Consulate, French Police and French Navy.

After the service a cortege was formed and proceeded slowly to Lokawei Cemetery where the interment took place, the hearse being escorted by a guard of honour. The coffin which was draped with the French flag was borne to the grave by Caporaux-chefs Pernet-Mugnier, Deburgrave, Latapy, Fortier, Eichinger and Mellado. Father Chalain also officiated at the graveside where an eulogistic address was delivered by Captain Bachschmidt.

Among others sending wreaths were:—

Ships May Freely Sail To Chekiang Ports

The 47 foreign-owned steamers in Shanghai which have been allowed to sail between Shanghai and Ningpo are no longer required to apply for permission before each sailing so as to allow free transportation of goods. This is the new order issued by the Chinese military authorities in Chekiang but they are required to observe all new regulations. One of the important regulations is the prohibition of passenger traffic. Those who are officially commissioned to come to Shanghai and therefore must travel by boat are exceptions. They must, however, carry posses issued by proper Chinese authorities.

Dr. Williams was startled, so the father explained that the bucket had 3,500 pennies in it, all saved to pay for the boy Dr. Williams had delivered a few weeks before.—United Press.

Plenty of Food at Tientsin But Held Up

Here are craft, mostly carrying food supplies, held up in the Pei River, Tientsin, by the Japanese blockade which starts its sixth day today.

British Woman, French Soldier Found Shot in Apartment

Female Victim Married Eleven Days Ago in Hongkong To Butterfield & Swire Ship's Engineer

JUST eleven days after she had been married in Hongkong and a few hours after her arrival in Shanghai from the Colony, Mrs. R. M. Cherry, the 29-years-old wife of Mr. Robert Maitland Cherry, a British second engineer employed by Messrs Butterfield and Swire, was found dead in Apartment 305, 181 Avenue Dubail yesterday morning together with a first-class private in the French Army, named Paul Dehaulme, aged 27. Both persons had been shot through the head and were discovered lying together on a divan in the room which has been occupied by Mrs. Cherry for a considerable time.

First intimation of the tragedy came when an amah discovered the two bodies lying together shortly after 11 a.m. She informed a cook employed at the apartments and he, in turn, notified the Russian superintendent there, who got in touch with the French police. When the police arrived they found that Mrs. Cherry, who had been killed by a bullet wound in the region of the temple, just above the left ear, was lying face downwards, while the man, who had been shot with a bullet just above the right temple, was lying opposite her with an automatic pistol between his legs.

On the floor three cartridge cases were found, one shot having buried itself in the wall. Mr. C. H. Haines, H.M. Coroner, was notified of the tragedy by the French police and an inquest was opened by him yesterday afternoon, evidence of identification being given by the Russian superintendent of the apartments. The enquiry was then adjourned until Thursday at 2.15 p.m. Meanwhile the body of Dehaulme was removed by the French authorities and an inquest into the circumstances surrounding his death will be conducted by them.

Nothing to suggest a suicide pact was discovered in the room and enquiries are being made by the French Police and members of the detective staff at Chengtu Road Police Station to account for the shooting. When found the attitude of Mrs. Cherry suggested that she had been asleep. Also discovered were a British passport issued in Hongkong in Mrs. Cherry's name, several letters and a bank book showing over £261 to her credit in the Chartered Bank.

Former Russian

Enquiries by the police yesterday elicited the information that Mrs. Cherry, formerly Miss Ludmilla Lipovetskaya, believed to be a Russian, had been married in Hongkong on June 7 this year to Mr. Cherry, who is still in the Colony, where his ship, the ss. Kiungchow, is in dry dock at Kowloon. He was informed of the tragedy yesterday by Messrs. Butterfield and Swire and it is expected that he will sail for Shanghai immediately to attend the inquest.

Mrs. Cherry only arrived in Shanghai at 7 p.m. on Sunday evening from Hongkong in the ss. Tsinan, accompanied by another lady, but her movements between that time and 11 a.m. yesterday morning are still obscure. The other victim of the shooting was identified as a first-class private in the French Colonial Infantry, at present stationed in Shanghai. His body was removed by the French Municipal authorities to the Municipal Mortuary while the body of Mrs. Cherry has been taken to the parlours of the International Funeral Directors in Kiaochow Road. The pistol and cartridge cases have been removed for inspection by ballistic experts of the French police.

Settlement Asked to Control Prices

Chinese Plan to Relieve Situation

The Settlement authorities are to be asked to establish what is termed the "Commodity Price Discussion Society" for the purpose of reducing the prices of many commodities which are not affected by the foreign exchange situation.

It is stated by the Chinese press that the man who has made such a timely suggestion to the authorities is a merchant named Sun. He is said to have proposed a detailed plan of registering commodities in Shanghai with a view to readjusting the situation on a reasonable basis.

During the past few days, editorial comments made by the Chinese press here indicated that there has been strong opposition to the sudden increase of prices of many commodities and it has been pointed out that more than 20 Chinese business concerns advertised an increase of prices on a particular day. It is alleged that most of them are not affected by the foreign exchange market at all. Profiteering is discouraged it being explained that unreasonable increase of prices will do no good to merchants in the long run for it reduces the purchasing power.

Situation in Western Area Growing Worse Resulting in More Robberies

The total of 2,404 cases of crime dealt with by the Municipal Police in May shows an increase of 283 in comparison with that for April and an increase of 914 as compared with the figure for the corresponding month of last year. The figures for May also contain 188 cases brought to light by Police investigation, according to the report of the Commissioner of Police issued yesterday.

Arrests for crime committed during the month show an increase, 1,936 persons having been arrested in May as against 1,775 in April and 1,818 in March. In addition, 126 persons were taken into custody for crimes committed in previous months. 42 persons were arrested on behalf of other authorities.

Included in the arrests in May for crimes committed within the jurisdiction of the Shanghai Municipal Police are 104 persons in connection with armed crimes. 25 firearms were seized together with a large quantity of ammunition. Six cases of murder were recorded; five cases of attempted murder reported; and four cases of manslaughter. There were 13 cases of simple abduction, two more than in April and an increase of four as compared with the corresponding period of last year.

In The "Badlands"

There were 93 reports of armed robbery, 19 more than in April and an increase of 41 as compared with the figure for the corresponding period of last year. There were 13 other robberies, a decrease of three as compared with the figure for April.

The bad crime situation in "B" Division, the Western area, grows steadily worse due to gambling, opium and all sorts of illegalities permitted in areas between Municipal Roads and outside Police control. The resultant accumulation of bad characters and their protectors, the gangster element, naturally has the worst possible effect on the crime situation. Twenty three cases of armed robbery occurred beyond Settlement limits in the Western District in premises abutting on Municipal Roads compared with six in May, 1938.

The number of housebreakings recorded was 52 as compared with 49 in April. The number of burglaries reported was 46, an increase of nine as compared with the figure for April. "A" Division recorded 28 cases of shoplifting, a decrease of 11 as compared with the previous month; 27 arrests were made.

There were 203 cases of pocket-picking, an increase of 45 as compared with the previous month. 154 arrests were made. 129 bicycles were stolen, of which 15 were recovered; 20 arrests were made. Two motor vehicles were stolen and recovered. There were 116 cases of snatching, a decrease of 20 as compared with the figure for April, 82 arrests being made. There was an increase of 15 in the number of opium offences. The Headquarters Narcotic Section carried out 15 raids and arrested 68 persons.

Property valued at $208,658.31 was alleged to have been stolen as against property valued at $253,404.60 in April. Property valued at $46,515.50 was recovered.

Twelve male and 10 female Chinese committed suicide during the month.

Foreign Officers to Visit Battlefields

Six foreign military officers stationed in Japan arrived in Shanghai yesterday for a two weeks' tour of battlefields in Central China under Japanese Army and Navy auspices.

Included were Col. W. E. G. Bryant and Major F. H. A. Staples, British; Lieut.-Col. H. T. Creswell, American; Capt. R. Federici, Italian; Col. N. Bagulesco, Rumanian, and Maj. Jose de Lima Figuereido, Brazilian.

The present price of butter has caused widespread interest in Margarine. Hazelwood, as the leading importer of butter and as the manufacturer of Colonial Margarine and Palm Vitamin Plus Margarine is interested in both products, and, feeling that authentic information on margarine would be welcomed by you, has prepared a series of six articles on margarine. This is the second of the series.

The wholesomeness of margarine is recognized by scientific men, scientific societies, public health agencies, and by governmental agencies everywhere in the world. To be specific, it is recognized by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the U. S. Public Health Service, State and City Boards of Health, and leading nutrition workers everywhere. Doctors Wiley, Eddy, Halliburton and Drummond, Osborne and Mendel, Alsberg, Sherman, and hosts of other nutrition workers have declared that it is a wholesome food.

Congress, state legislatures and city councils have enacted laws and ordinances defining margarine and regulating its composition, manufacture, branding, and sale for food. Thus the legislative branches of the American government recognize it as a wholesome food. The courts take judicial notice of the fact.

In its manufactured form, margarine consists of about 82% fat, 1% casein, 2% salt, and 15% of water. The casein includes small quantities of valuable mineral salts normal to milk. The salt is the same common salt that is so generally used as food. The food value of the fats used in making margarine is also well known.

The primary function of a fat in the diet is to make our food more attractive and palatable and to supply our bodies with heat and muscle energy. Energy value is measured and expressed in terms of digestibility and calories. According to McCollum, one kind of food fat is "digested with practically the same ease and completeness" as any other kind of food fat. This opinion is shared by Holmes, Flurin, Mayer, Snyder, Luhrig and numerous other investigators. The energy value of one kind of edible fat is the same as the energy value of any other kind. This fact is so universally accepted that references to scientific authority are unnecessary.

Give margarine a trial and we suggest that you give it a fair trial by using the best margarine that you can get. COLONIAL Brand, manufactured at Hazelwood Park, sells for 80 cents per pound. PALM VITAMIN PLUS MARGARINE, a blend of Australian Creamery butter and superior margarine is delicious and wholesome. The Vitamin content of Palm Vitamin Plus is:

Vitamin A — 10,000 International Units
Vitamin D — 3,150 International Units

This gives you even more of valuable vitamins than you would get in butter. And Palm Brand sells for only $1.05 per pound.

U.S. Industrial Activity

New York, By Mail.

Reflecting the effects of the bituminous coal strike, the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial activity shows a sharp decline in April, says the "Financial News."

The Board puts the index at 92 for last month, which compares with 98 for March and 77 for April, 1938, and is the lowest figure since September last, when the index stood at 90. The April index for last year showed a decline of 2 points on the month.

Last month's sharp break is in line with expectations. It will be remembered that when the Federal Reserve Board announced the index for March, it declared that the sharp decline in coal production during April would result in a considerable fall in the index for that month. Actually it is the biggest fall since November last, when the figure fell from 102, to 83.

The following table gives the index for the past twelve months:—

Rise in German Oil Imports

Failure of Self-Sufficiency Plan; Concessions In Rumania May Prove Unprofitable

THAT GERMANY would be independent of imported motor fuel by the spring of this year was the forecast given by Herr Hitler in September, 1936. That this independence has not been achieved is evident from the course of imports and the German efforts to obtain oil from Rumania and even from Mexico, learns the "Financial News." The situation is a bull point for the maintenance of peace. The course of oil imports, as given in the latest half-yearly report of the Reichs-Kredit-Gesellschaft, is shown in the table at the foot of this column.

The value of imports in relation to their volume shows how the appreciable drop in prices must have given a considerable relief to the shortage of foreign exchange. The relief may or may not help to explain why imports have mounted despite the plans to achieve as great a degree of self-sufficiency as possible.

The United States has been, in the value of shipments, the most important source of German mineral oil imports; in 1937 such shipments totalled 1,007,000 metric tons, compared with 548,600 metric tons in 1934. The United States has been the principal supplier of Diesel and lubricating oils to Germany and ranks first as the source of crude oil. In 1937 Rumanian oil accounted for only one-fifth of the value of Germany's total oil imports.

What the table presented does not disclose is the output of synthetic fuel derived from coal and lignite. Under the Four Years Plan large new plants were planned which are to provide "a sure and permanent supply of fuel from home sources." No new projects for coal liquefaction have been announced in Germany for some time, though the construction of a new hydrogenation plant on the Baltic Coast is announced. As there is no coal or lignite in this neighbourhood the plant is presumably intended for the treatment of crude oil; hydrogenation is, of all the refining processes, that which can get from crude the maximum of fine spirit.

Total Home Production

From oil wells, as the table shows, Germany is getting under 450,000 metric tons of petroleum, while from other sources such as coal lignite the output is about 1½ million tons. From all domestic sources, including vegetation, Germany is not getting one-half of her oil needs, and more probably only about one-third.

To encourage German road vehicles to turn over to substitutes for oil, grants are made for vehicle-conversion to producer-gas or compressed gas. Gas producing plant depends largely on wood or charcoal available at one thousand "wood-filling stations." Further encouragement to wood burning seems unlikely now that wood supplies have been brought under control, alternatives to wood in building construction recommended, and the claim made that types of wood hitherto considered fit only for fuel are being put to industrial uses.

Whether the strain on timber resources will be quickly relieved by the exploitation of the Rumanian forests now arranged remains to be seen. The pressure on wood supplies comes from the ever growing demand of the rayon and staple fibre industries. A quarter of a million buses and trucks run on compressed gas, cylinders being available at filling stations and often carried on a trailer.

The German-Rumanian trade treaty signed in March gives Germany certain oil concessions in an area which some suggest may prove unprofitable to work and the resources of which are problematical. The total current output of Rumanian oil is about 1½ million tons above Germany's maximum imports so far recorded. The German Institute for Business Research puts the presumably official German view in a recent survey of Rumania's economic resources.

The Rumanian Decline

The Institute states that Rumanian oil production, which has experienced an extraordinary upswing since the war, showing a tenfold increase from 1919 to 1936, has declined sharply since the autumn of 1936. In that year, oil production was still 8.7 million metric tons, but in 1938 it was only 6.6 million metric tons. Due to this Rumania, which formerly occupied fourth place in world crude oil production, has now fallen to sixth place behind Iran and the Dutch East Indies.

However, the view that Rumanian oil production is declining due to "natural" reasons is challenged by many other experts who believe that the decline in oil production is due to the national mine laws which have led to insufficient and faulty investigation and exploitation of the oil deposits. The upswing in the oil industry after the war, and especially in the years from 1933 to 1935, was mainly the result, say these experts, of the free competition between domestic and foreign capital.

As long as foreign capital was allowed to work undisturbed, production increased. But when, as a result of the mining laws passed in 1924, the State became the sole owner of the oil deposits, there arose continually economic and fiscal difficulties so that the initiative of the foreign companies was almost completely checked, especially since they were allowed only a small share in the profits of the oil wells. Furthermore transportation conditions are also said to have hindered greatly the development of the oil industry.

Technical Drawbacks

There are only two pipelines for the transportation of the crude oil to the ports, Constanza and Giurgiu, through which go almost all oil exports. Therefore, for most of the crude oil the producers are dependent on costly transportation. However, the State railroads have no interest, so experts say, in the expansion of the pipelines which they control, since they would lose by this a large part of their freight income.

In addition, the fields are considerably divided up, the wells are far too close together, and therefore the natural gas pressure for the production of the crude oil is small. Since the pump costs are too high in view of the general profit ratio, only about 15 to 20 per cent. of the available oil is taken out, while in the case of rational production 70 per cent. can be taken out.

The above-mentioned obstacles have caused not only a subnormal exploitation of the oil deposits, but also an absolutely insufficient amount of new exploration. It is reported that the foreign companies, since they are uninterested under present conditions in making new capital investments, try to get round the provisions of the mining legislation (whereby they are obliged to investigate and exploit the socalled "promising fields") by endeavouring to secure for themselves fields which lie near the already discovered oil deposits.

Unexploited Deposits

It is said, however, that there are still tremendous unexploited oil deposits. The possible oil fields are estimated at least 200,000 hectares. Extensive and still unexploited deposits are said to exist, especially in the "Siebenbürgent" natural gas district. According to figures of the Royal Geological Institute in Bucharest, the possible oil area is estimated at over one million hectares.

In summary, it can be said that experts challenge the view that Rumanian oil wells are approaching exhaustion. These experts state that the decline in production is due more to economic factors and technical backwardness than to natural processes. Therefore, a renewed increase in Rumanian oil production is considered quite probable, if the areas which have not been investigated up to now are carefully explored and new fields developed, and if in the case of existing wells where production is considered unprofitable, use is made of modern deep-boring equipment, such as is used in California. This equipment makes it possible to develop not only the upper and the middle, but also the lower oil strata.

Effect on Air War Policy

Germany's reliance on continuing and increasing oil imports is a factor conducive to the avoidance of war, or at least to economy in the use of aeroplanes in war. The average twin-engined bomber of today has a petrol consumption (on a very conservative estimate) of round 56 gallons per hour of flight. At a speed of 250 miles per hour, which is that of a standard type of British bomber, a flight to the east and south-east coast of England and back to the nearest point in Germany means using up not less than 140 to 150 gallons of petrol (the latter figure being half a metric ton).

But bombers could obviously not all be concentrated at the nearest given points to England; the groups would have to be scattered and many would start from well beyond Germany's western frontier. It is as far from the centre of Germany to Germany's western frontier as it is from that frontier to the English coast. Hence flights to the English coast and back from bases in Central Germany would use up twice as much petrol, or one metric ton.

Last September Germany was said to have at least 2,000 bombers and, whatever may be the true number, she has since increased the total very considerably, and is continuously doing so. It would be rash to say that Germany has not the petrol to fly these machines, but it is evident that to keep them continuously employed in war would eat up petrol, and Germany is not yet in a position to be indifferent to petrol consumption.

Berlin Bourse Weekly Report

Berlin, June 18.

The firm tendency on the share market that set in at the end of last week did not continue during the current week. The share market was exceedingly quiet with little stock changing hands so that prices kept declining daily. The cause for the listlessness was the continued demand by bank customers for tax credit certificates Nr. 1 though certificates Nr. 2 were also asked. Prices for these continued firm with certificates Nr. 1 touching 102.50 and certificates Nr. 298.45 yesterday. The turnover of the latter yesterday amounted to 550,000 Marks. Other fixed interest securities remained quiet during the whole week.

The "Frankfurter Zeitung" share index for June 16th was given at 128.59 and the bond index at 101.70. The wholesale price index for the past week was 107.

Call money was in demand during the week for the semi-monthly settlement, the rate rising to 2¾ to 3 but dropping again to 2⅝ to 2⅞ per cent.

An official statement issued by the Reichs Finance Ministry showed that the Reichs revenues for 1938 aggregated 17,700,000,000 Marks. Although no new taxation is to be imposed, the revenue expected for 1939 is estimated at 22,000,000,000 Marks and that for 1940 still higher, the increased figure being expected because of the anticipated rise in national revenue.

U.S. Sales Less in April

The foreign trade of the United States in April showed a favourable balance of $44,752,000, against $77,948,000 in March and $114,645,000 in April, 1938. For the four months ended April 30, the favourable balance was $217,132,000, against $433,949,000 in the corresponding period of last year.

Exports of merchandise in April amounted to $230,947,000, against $268,364,000 the previous month and $274,472,000 in April, 1938, while imports totalled $186,195,000, compared with $190,416,000 and $159,827,000 respectively.

For the four months exports were $930,090,000, against $1,100,786,000 last year, and imports $712,958,000, against $666,837,000.

Imports of gold in April amounted to $606,027,000, compared with $365,436,000 in March and $71,236,000 in April, 1938, and for January to April the figure is $1,351,187,000, against $139,549,000. Gold exports last month were negligible, with the total for the four months $380,000, compared with $5,407,000 in the comparable period of last year.

Borneo Native Gets His Revenge

Support in Jail Forced From Government

Singapore, June 19.

A Dyak, descendant of the former much-feared head-hunters of Borneo, went to jail to spite the government.

The Dyak was accused of possessing illicit contraband opium and pleaded guilty. To the court he explained that he had been so annoyed with the government for giving him notice to quit his land for non-payment of taxes that he decided to sell contraband opium in order to get caught and sentenced to prison, where he would live free for a few months.

The court refused to disappoint him and a sentence of imprisonment was duly passed.—United Press.

Big Reception for High Commissioner Planned

Filipino Officials in San Francisco Ready

Washington, June 19.

Philippine officials are planning an elaborate programme of welcome for Mr. Paul McNutt, U.S. High Commissioner for the Philippines, when he arrives in San Francisco, Friday from Manila, it was disclosed today.

A delegation of Filipinos from the San Francisco Exposition will meet Mr. McNutt outside the harbour and escort him to the Exposition grounds where he will be honoured at a Commonwealth dinner and reception at which he is expected to speak.

Bands will meet Mr. McNutt when he lands in San Francisco and a parade through the city streets probably will be held.

After two days in San Francisco Mr. McNutt will leave for Indianapolis, his home town, and Washington, where he will report to President Roosevelt on conditions in the Far East.—United Press.

THE famous Mansion House cat, Dick Whittington, presented to Sir Harry Twyford when he was Lord Mayor of London last year, was found on April 11 in the garden of a house at Wimbledon near Sir Harry's home at Copse. Hill. It was dead, and had been beaten about the head. The cat met hundreds of famous people at the Mansion House while Sir Harry was Lord Mayor. There may be a court sequel.

Imperial Smelting New Scheme

Moves to Re-form An International Zinc Cartel Planned

Moves to re-form an international zinc cartel, The Financial News understands, will be made almost immediately now that the position of the industry in this country has been settled by the increase in the import duty on foreign zinc.

Although the price of spelter on the London Metal Exchange rose 2s. 6d. yesterday to £14 1s. 3d—the highest price this year—the movement resulted from the generally improved political sentiment in stock and commodity markets rather than from any marked confidence that efforts to resuscitate the zinc cartel would succeed.

Imperial Smelting Ordinary improved to 12s. 6d. at one time yesterday but were finally unchanged on balance at 12s. There was some—profit taking following the recent rapid rise.

Export Rebate

Imperial Smelting Corporation will benefit considerably from proposals of the Import Duties Advisory Committee summarized in The Financial News yesterday.

The necessity for an export rebate fund arises from the fact that the increase of 17s. 6d. in the import duty will raise the price of zinc to consumers by that amount and will involve some increase in the price of goods containing zinc. For exporters of zinc-containing goods this would represent an important handicap, and the object of the export rebate fund is to avert the necessity for increasing the export prices of zinc-containing goods by paying to consumers a sum equivalent to the amount of proposed duty increase on the tonnage of zinc exported.

Modified Scheme

It was originally calculated that the required sum would be provided if Imperial Smelting paid 5s. a ton on its production into the export rebate fund, and if Empire producers contributed a similar amount on each ton of zinc imported and sold by them in the United Kingdom. This figure of 5s. was arrived at after considering the normal volume of the principal exported zinc-containing goods and the normal zinc content of these goods.

Consumers pointed out, however, that the ratio of U.K. consumption Empire zinc to that of non-Empire zinc varies from year to year, as does also the volume of exports of zinc-containing goods. Thus the rebate per ton yielded by the proposed pool might well fluctuate substantially from time to time. Consumers therefore requested an arrangement for an export rebate of 17s. 6d. per ton of zinc content of exported manufactures.

The basis of the contributions of Imperial Smelting and Empire producers to the export rebate fund will be determined by mutual agreement. But over a period the contributions of producers will be roughly the same as if their original proposals had not been modified.

The Imperial Smelting Corporation, therefore, will pay to consumers roughly 5s. a ton on its production, which is to be limited to a maximum of 60,000 tons per annum. The annual rebate payment will thus be about £15,000. But Imperial Smelting will receive 10s. a ton on every ton of Empire zinc imported and sold in this country. Imports last year were 108,000 tons and this year have been running at the rate of nearly 120,000 tons per annum. Imperial Smelting will benefit to the extent of between £50,000 and £60,000 annually. In addition, its production of 60,000 tons per annum will be sold at an extra premium of 17s. 6d. a ton—being the amount of the duty increase—and this will yield a further £52,500, making a total of between £102,500 and £112,500. From that falls to be deducted the export rebate payment of around £15,000, leaving a net gain to Imperial Smelting of between £87,500 and £97,500.

The Corporation's profits in the year to June 30 last were £103,327 and insufficient to cover the Preference dividend for the year.

Had the protective arrangements now proposed been in force during the company's last financial year, profits would have been in the region of £200,000, a sum which would have covered the Preference dividend and permitted some payment—say, 2½ per cent.—on the Ordinary capital. The last Ordinary dividend was 5 per cent. for 1937.

Shanghai Foreign Trade for May

According to the monthly returns issued by the Chinese Maritime Customs covering the foreign trade of Shanghai, net Imports during May, 1939 totalled $72,895,022. Net Exports totalled $34,223,057. January-May figures were $255,712,013 and $146,797,472 respectively, as compared with the corresponding figures of 1938 of $85,396,301 and $57,715,799 respectively.

Paris Bourse Review

Paris, June 18.

The past week on the Bourse was adversely affected by events in Danzig and Tientsin, which financiers interpreted as but two aspects of one crisis. There was an appreciable decrease in stocks, but affected most were the shares regarded as speculative at the best of times.

The fortnightly settlement took place without difficulty, for the Bourse's reaction to the initiatives of the totalitarian triangle were moderate.

On the exchange market, calm reigned and the franc became firmer, confirming its position as "a currency of refuge." The pound sterling closed at 176.72 as against 176.74 francs the week before. The American dollar became firmer, however, and closed at 37.75 as against 37.73.—Havas.

Anglo-Polish Talks Continuing

London, June 19.

The Anglo-Polish economic negotiations are to be resumed today, the last meeting between the British and Polish trade experts having taken place on Thursday. In the meantime these experts have drafted further details so that substantial results are expected in the course of this week.

Polish quarters emphasise that in the course of the present conversations Britain has met the Polish wishes to a higher degree than had been expected.—Trans-Ocean.

German Labour Leader To Bucharest

Berlin, June 18.

Dr. Robert Ley, Labour Front chief, will fly to Bucharest tomorrow as the special guest of the Rumanian Government. He is to attend ceremonies inaugurating the "Joy and Work" exposition there.

During his visit, Dr. Ley will visit Rumanian factories and social welfare centres.

Dr. H. Frank, State Minister, is also to leave Berlin. He will go to Sofia, to receive an honorary doctorate from the University of Sofia.—Havas.

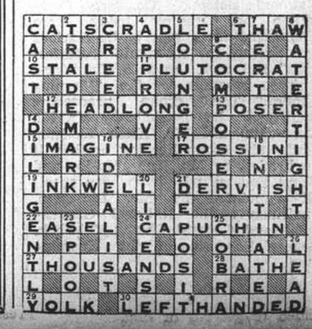
SOLUTION OF LONDON CROSS WORD No. 1841



FROM DAY TO DAY

THE Municipal Offices will be closed to public business tomorrow.

COMMANDANT De La Ferté, French Air Attaché, returned to Shanghai yesterday by the President Taft from Hongkong.

MR. Walter J. Wilson, supt. engineer of the American President Lines, returned to Shanghai by the President Taft from Hongkong yesterday.

MRS. C. C. O'Connell has been admitted to the Country Hospital this morning, for observation.

MR. Benjamin C. Gaston, general manager and vice-president of the Visayan and Negros Transportation Company of Bacaloa City, P.I. and Mrs. Gaston arrived in Shanghai from Manila for a short vacation here.

THE Victoria Restaurant, which opened yesterday, is situated opposite the Shanghai Power Co., and occupies the first floor of the premises situated at the intersection of Nanking and Kiangse Roads. The establishment is under foreign supervision and caters to discriminating diners. Delicious teas also are served.

MR. Li Chun-cheng, a Chinese resident of Hongkong, has contributed $100,000 worth of Liberty Bonds to the Academia Sinica, with the request that any research fellow of the Chinese Government research institute be awarded over $3,000 for contributing any inventions, says a Hongkong Chinese report to the "Sin Wan Pao."

GENERAL Fang Cheh, acting Chairman of the Honan Provincial Government, has just completed a tour of inspection of Eastern Honan districts, and arrived in Nanyang on June 17. says a message to the "Sin Wan Pao." Eastern Honan was peaceful, General Fang stated, but the local militia corps needed reorganization, and there was a general scarcity of foodstuffs, the report adds.

THE health report of the French Municipality for the week ending June 17, shows that the total number of deaths from all causes amongst the foreign and Chinese population in the Concession were—Foreigners 1 and Chinese 264. Deaths from notifiable diseases were—Chinese, Typhoid and Paratyphoid Fevers 36; Tuberculosis 20; Measles 8; Dysentery 3; Pneumonia 3; Cerebrospinal Meningitis 2; and Diphtheria, Typhus Fever, Beri-beri, Septicemia 1 each.

SOVIET importation of Chinese tea has steadily increased. During the first four months of this year, a total of 19,903,258 lb. of this Chinese staple product, valued at HK$8,227,774 was exported from Hongkong to Soviet Russia, or aggregating 80 per cent. of the total exports of tea during the same period, says a report to the "Sin Wan Pao." Exportation of tea to Soviet Russia and of tung oil to the United States, the report States, is now being steadily conducted on a barter system.

STATIONING two unarmed bluejachets at various dangerous street intersections in the Japanese defence area in Hongkew and Yangtszepoo, the Japanese Naval Special Landing Party on Sunday co-operated in the Safety Week Campaign sponsored by the Shanghai Municipal Council. "Good results" were achieved on Sunday, the transportation division of the Landing Party announced on Sunday night, the "Tairiku Shimpo" reported yesterday.

A DUTCH motor barge on May 19 passed through the lines of the Home Fleet at anchor in Portland roads. At Castletown Pier, Portland, she discharged a cargo of potatoes for the Navy. She had loaded at Lossiemouth and Montrose. As a result Portland Urban Council have decided to embody in their future tenders and contracts a condition that material, when seaborne, should be carried in British ships. The Ministry of Health is expressing concern about the increasing competition of foreign vessels in British coastal trade.

THE Shanghai Municipal Council health report for the week ending midnight June 17, shows that the total number of deaths from all causes amongst the foreign and Chinese population in the Settlement were—Foreigners 7 and Chinese 681. Deaths from notifiable diseases were—Chinese, Typhoid Fever 46; Tuberculosis 25; Measles 8; Diphtheria 5; Dysentery 5; Relapsing Fever 4; Beri-beri 3; Typhus Fever 2 and Scarlet Fever, Schistosomiasis, Choleraic Diarrhoea 1 each.

THE programme for the orchestral concert to be given in Jessfield Park, orchestra enclosure, on Tuesday, June 20, from 9 to 11 p.m. (weather permitting) is as follows:—

Overture "William Tell" .....Rossini
Piccola Suite .....F. Cilea
(a) Danza
(b) Notturnino
(c) Marcia
Two Pieces for String only
.....Percy Grainger
(a) Irish tune from County Derry
(b) Moc Morris
Marche Militaire .....Schubert
Selection "La Boheme" .....Puccini
Dance of "The Hours" from "La Gioconda" .....Ponchielli

AN inter-provincial water and land communication system has now been inaugurated between Chekiang, Kiangsi, Fukien, Hunan and Kwangtung, under the respective Chinese military authorities, with a view to facilitating the transportation of merchandise, says a report to the "Sin Wan Pao." A fleet of 15 heavy trucks, belonging to a commercial company at Kinhwa, East Chekiang, has been mobilized to undertake transportation in the Chekiang areas, the report states. Uniform transportation charges for equal distances, the report adds, have been agreed upon among the five provincial authorities.

Two groups of members of the National Soldiers' Comfort Committee are leaving today from Chungking for a tour of the various war fronts, to distribute "comfort gifts" and cash, says a Chungking Chinese message to the "Morning Leader." The group proceeding south will be headed by Mr. Ma Chao-chun and Mr. Hsieh Tso-min. while the group heading north will be headed by Mr. Kuo Mo-jo and Wang You-yu, who have been specially appointed by Mr. Lin Sen, Chairman of the National Government, and General Chiang Kai-shek, General Executive of the Kuomintang.

Foreign Lady Robbed By Armed Bandits

While walking along Railway Road, near the home of Maj.-Gen. F. K. Simmons, Commander of the British Forces in Shanghai, yesterday morning, Miss Anne Lamberton of St. Luke's No. 2 Hospital situated in the Academia Sinica building was held up by a party of armed men and relieved of $93. At the time of the hold-up very few people were in the vicinity and after relieving Miss Lamberton of her bag at pistol point the men were able to make their getaway before any police arrived on the scene.

Concessions in China Will Not be Sacrificed

Paris, June 19.

The Tientsin crisis arising from the Japanese blockade of the British and French concessions and semi-official Japanese demands for the surrender of the British Concession kept diplomats in London and Paris active throughout the day yesterday, despite the usual Sunday holiday.

The British and French Governments, it was understood, have virtually decided they cannot sacrifice their concessions to the Japanese forces without risking the collapse of their overseas empires.

However, further cabinet discussions will be required both here and in London before final policies are adopted, it was understood.

Authoritative sources said the French Government had assured Britain that it would support any decision of the British Government which would meet Japanese threats to the security of France's holdings in the Far East.—United Press.

Eventual Explosion Expected

Paris, June 19.

The situation in the Far East is the main preoccupation of the press here today. The "Petit Journal" warns that it will be difficult to avoid an eventual explosion in the Far East if "one continues to amuse oneself playing with matches round barrels of powder,"

The paper remarks, however, that the Anglo-Japanese affair in Tientsin can and ought to be solved, because basically it is in the interests of the two countries to keep normal relations with each other.

"L'Epoque" says that effective economic sanctions must be supported by arms and that is why particular importance is attached to the meeting of the British and French commanders at Singapore.

M. Pertinax, writing in "L'Ordre," considers that it would not be difficult for Japan to take the Tientsin and Shanghai areas by force of arms, but that sooner or later her conquest would be subject to a peaceful or warlike decision in Europe and she would not be able to withstand coercive economic measures by Great Britain, France and the United States. —Reuter.

Philippines Exhibit At Fair May Close

Plea for More Funds to Stay Open Useless

Manila, June 19.

The Philippines exhibit at the San Francisco World's Fair may be forced to close because of a lack of funds, the "Herald" reported today.

Sr. Arsenio Luz, director of the exhibit, twice cabled the Secretary of Finance, Sr. Manuel Roxas, requesting 30,000 pesos in order to maintain the exhibition and pointing out that the closing would be detrimental to the interests of the Philippines, the "Herald" understood.

Sr. Roxas was reported to have replied that no Governmental funds were available at present for the exhibit.—United Press.

Papal Nuncio Reports To the Vatican

Conversations with Polish Office Related

Warsaw, June 19.

Monsignor Cortesi, the Papal Nuncio, left for Rome today to report to the Vatican on his recent conversations with President Moscicki and Col. Joseph Beck, the Foreign Minister. He had another talk with Col. Beck on Saturday.

Official quarters admit that Monsignor Cortesi made certain soundings regarding the possibility of a peaceful solution to the Danzig dispute.

It is assumed that the Vatican may make a move in Berlin if it is satisfied with the results of Monsignor Cortesi's talks in Warsaw.—Reuter.

OBITUARY

Brig.-Gen. Lord Henry Seymour

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, June 19.

The death occurred today at the age of 61 of Brigadier-General Lord Henry Seymour, Lord Lieutenant of Warwickshire. He was formerly the Commanding Officer of the Grenadier Guards Regiment. He served in South Africa from 1900-2, and was awarded the Queen's Medal with three clasps, and the King's Medal with two clasps.

Later, in 1914, he served in the Cameroons, where he was severely wounded. He was appointed Lieut.-Colonel commanding the Fourth Battalion, the Grenadier Guards, in 1916, and Brigadier-General commanding the Third Guards Brigade in the following year.

He was severely wounded in that year, and received the Croix d'Officier Legion d'Honneur, was mentioned in dispatches four times, and was further awarded the D.S.O. with bar.

He was appointed Brigade Commander of the 144th Infantry Brigade, Territorial Army, in 1926, holding this position until the following year.

He commanded the Regiment, and the Regimental District, of the Grenadier Guards from 1927-29, and was retired with pay in 1939.—Reuter.

Joint Naval Action Rumoured

Tokyo, June 19.

"There is a rumour that the British and French navies are contemplating joint action in the Far East, but there is no occasion for Japan to worry if this rumour turns out to be true," today declared Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, Minister of the Navy, who is making a tour of the provinces.

Regarding the Tientsin situation, Admiral Yonai said that the Japanese Government upheld the Japanese authorities in Tientsin in their efforts to seek a local settlement of the question.—Reuter.

I.R.A. Pirate Station Broadcasts

Propaganda Blares Forth For Fifteen Minutes

Belfast, June 18.

The secret pirate radio station again broadcast twice today, purportedly from the general headquarters of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

The first broadcast stated: "Whatever the social programme or national ambition of other nations may be, our sole criterion is and should be—can they help us to freedom in return for our aid?"

The other broadcast of fifteen minutes blamed British agents for a campaign of terrorism in Ireland.—United Press.

You look your natural, lovely self with Tangee

You'll find this feeling general with men. They don't like lips and cheeks smeared with red paint, or skin with a coated "powdery" look. The secret of Tangee is—it isn't paint. Therefore, can't paint.

By its magic Color Change Principle, Tangee Lipstick, Rouge and Face Powder change color as applied, blend with your natural skin tones. Give a lovely, youthful color that men admire. Use the Tangee Trio today to reveal your natural beauty. Insist on Tangee Lipstick, Rouge (Creme or Compact) and Face Powder.

In the stick Tangee Natural is orange. On your lips it changes to suit your natural individual coloring. On occasion, you may prefer a more vivid color, then use Tangee Theatrical Lipstick and Rouge to match.

Tangee Rouge (Creme or Compact) also change color when applied. Gives cheeks a delicate youthful glow, natural to you.

End that powdered look with Tangee Face Powder. Blends with your own skin tones, makes your skin look younger, fresher.

Possible Reprisals Being Studied

Action to Be Taken If Peaceful Settlement at Tientsin Impossible

London, June 19.

The Board of Trade report on the measures which might be taken in the economic and commercial sphere as a reprisal against the Japanese action in Tientsin was studied at this morning's meeting of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Cabinet.

It is hoped in competent quarters here that Tokyo will be willing to settle the incident in a manner satisfactory to both parties. However, were Japan to maintain her present attitude, the measures contemplated this morning would be carried out immediately, it was stressed.

Following this morning's meeting, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the Prime Minister, conferred with Mr. Arthur Greenwood, Deputy Leader of the Labour Opposition in the House of Commons, who leads the Opposition in the absence of Major C. R. Attlee, who is ill.

According to authorized quarters, the conversation did not bear upon the Far Eastern situation, but on the agenda of this afternoon's session in the House of Commons.

Competent quarters here openly discussed the possibilities examined by the Committee. Yesterday's communique issued by the Japanese Government is considered here as comparatively moderate when compared to the attitude of the Japanese military authorities in Tientsin. These quarters hope that the incident will be "locally settled."

The impression prevailing here in political quarters tonight is that the British Cabinet is determined to make further efforts through diplomatic channels to obtain a "local settlement" of the affair, although elaborating a plan of reprisals against Japan in the event of an amicable settlement becoming impossible.—Havas.

Congress Looking At Far East

Attention Being Turned To Various Measures to Curb Aggression

Washington, June 18.

Draftsmen of Foreign policy legislation in the House plan to steer the Administration's neutrality bill toward a vote late this week or early next.

Meanwhile, attention was turned to various measures designed to curb Japanese aggression in the Far East by means of economic reprisals.

Further definition of the legislative course will come tomorrow when President Roosevelt meets with his Congressional lieutenants, one of whom, Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, Democrat, spent the week-end with the Chief Executive aboard the Presidential yacht Potomac.

The second guest was Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach, Democrat of Washington and author of a stringent Japanese measure.

The President already has made it clear that he wants neutrality law revision at this session despite the promised filibuster of the mandatory neutrality and isolationist blocs in the Senate.

The Japanese question, especially pertinent because of Japan's direct action against Great Britain at Tientsin, will come before the House Foreign Affairs Committee this week when consideration will be given to a number of anti-Japanese bills.—United Press.

Terrible Explosion At Haifa

Eighteen Persons Killed By Bomb in Market Place; Reprisals Demanded

Haifa, June 19.

Eighteen persons were killed, including seven women and two children, and nineteen were injured when a bomb exploded in the crowded market-place here this morning. Human bodies mingled with those of animals on the square, most of them unrecognizable owing to the force of the explosion. Most of the neighbouring buildings were damaged. Ambulances, taxis, and private cars were commandeered to transport the wounded to hospitals.

The authorities have imposed a curfew following the incident.

Excitement in Arab quarters was at a fever pitch as the explosion was attributed to the Jews.

A group of Arab women marched to the German Consulate, demanding that the Consul help them to take appropriate measures against those responsible for the outrage.

The Consul refused to receive the women, whereupon they announced that they would appeal to Herr Hitler personally.

Meanwhile, all the roads in the city are empty with the exception of police patrols and groups of soldiers. All shops and offices have been closed. —Havas.

Britain Wants C.-G. In Prague

London, June 19.

Replying to questions on Bohemia and Moravia in the House of Commons today, Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, stated that Sir Nevile Henderson, the British Ambassador in Berlin, had been instructed to make an application to the German Government for a British Consul-General in Prague.

While the Government realized this step implied de facto recognition of the present position in Bohemia and Moravia, it did not involve any modification of the views of the Government on this question.

Lieut.-Cmr. R.T.H. Fletcher, Labour member for the Nuneaton division of Warwickshire, suggested that this constituted recognition of the legality of the annexation.

"No," replied Mr. Butler.

He added that the Government had stated that they regarded the annexation as devoid of any basis of legality.—Reuter.

Submarine Salvaging Apparatus Invented

Belgrade, June 19.

New apparatus for salvaging submarine crews has been constructed by a Belgrade engineer named M. Dushan Kuzmanovich, according to the "Vreme." Kuzmanovich claims that he can guarantee the absolutely certain rescue of crews from wrecked submarines lying at depths down to 200 metres.

The British Admiralty has telegraphed Kuzmanovich to come to Britain to demonstrate the capacity of his invention.

The British Admiralty and the French naval authorities declined to adopt the Yugoslav invention when approached on a former occasion; it is not known to what extent the apparatus has been improved in the meantime.—Trans-Ocean.

New Delicate Situation Arises in Tientsin

Mr. Tipper stated that the Council during the present year, had not imposed such a ban and had never, in any way, prevented or obstructed persons desiring to transport supplies. In support of his statement, Mr. Tipper produced available returns showing that during the first day of the blockade, 10,000 bags of flour and 78 bags of rice had been removed from the Concession. On June 15, he said, 17,000 bags of flour and 950 bags of rice were removed.

On June 13, continued Mr. Tripper, when the intention of imposing a blockade became known, 91 bags of flour and 900 bags of rice were removed from the British Concession.

"Other Side of Picture"

Returns from June 16 onward, said Mr. Tipper, had not yet been completed, but the removal of flour and rice was proceeding apace. If they found the pace slow, he continued, it was not the fault of the Council, which was not placing any restrictions on their removal. Turning to the other side of the picture, Mr. Tipper pointed out that the Japanese had not kept their oft-repeated declaration that they would not prevent foodstuffs from reaching the concessions.

Since the afternoon of June 16, he said, Japanese motor-launches have been patrolling the river and turning back all native craft carrying vegetables and other food supplies upriver to the concessions. These craft have always been the main source of supply for the concessions. Minor quantities of foodstuffs, declared Mr. Tipper, continued to enter the concessions through the barriers, but these were inadequate for the populace, which, aside from foreigners, included about 80,000 Chinese. Despite the recent vigorous protest of the British Consul-General, British subjects continue to be singled out for attention at searching stations.

The shipping situation, however, has eased somewhat, with the arrival of two British coastal vessel, Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co.,'s Yatshing and Butterfield & Swire's Chengtu, without being stopped at the Japanese control point. Consequently, the owners are reported to have decided to cable their Shanghai offices to resume shipments of cargo to Tientsin. The harrowing experiences of two Britons who attempted to visit the Race Course during the week-end have just been revealed.

The first, a man, was stripped naked at a searching station, while the tinned goods he was carrying were opened. The other case concerned a girl, who was manhandled by a Chinese policeman, who called her an extremely foul name in Chinese. Knowing enough Chinese to understand the meaning, the girl almost became hysterical. She eventually got past the barrier with the aid of some Germans.

Unpleasant Experiences

Mrs. I. A. Donnelly, a Briton, and Mrs. M. B. Rodger, an American, also had rather unpleasant experiences when they ventured out yesterday to the Country Club, situated in Japanese-controlled territory, for a breath of fresh air in view of the terrific heat—105 degrees in the shade.

They met with no difficulties on the way out, but were firmly refused admission on returning. After much fruitless argument, they made a two-mile trip to another entrance, where they were permitted to re-enter the Concession.

Despite the repeated requests of the British Consul-General to hand him over for enquiry, the Japanese are still detaining Mr. G. A. Smith, a Briton, who was arrested on Saturday afternoon after an argument with a Chinese policeman.

The food situation continues to cause concern.

Mr. A. E. Tipper, Chairman of the British Municipal Council, informs Reuter that while there is an enormous supply of rice and flour available, Japanese launch patrols in the river have effectively cut off vegetable, meat and fish supplies.—Reuter.

American Official Calls On Gaimusho

Tokyo, June 19.

Mr. Eugene Dooman, American Chargé d'Affaires here, called on Mr. Seijiro Yoshizawa, director of the American Affairs Bureau of the Foreign Office, shortly after noon today to exchange information regarding the situation in Tientsin.

The American diplomat remained in conference with Mr. Yoshizawa for 40 minutes.—Domei.

U.S. Air Merger Rapped

Washington, June 18.

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, chairman of the National Monopoly Committee, tonight attacked a proposed merger of Western Air Express and United Air Lines and warned that he would see that the consolidation is studied thoroughly if it is presented to the Civil Aeronauties authority. "The merger has all the earmarks of a mere financial manipulation which can be of no benefit to aviation as a whole," Senator O'Mahoney said.—United Press.

Terrific Tornado In America

Eleven Killed, 200 Hurt In Minnesota; "Twisting Funnel-Shaped Cloud"

Anoka, June 19.

Eleven persons were dead and at least 200 were injured today following a furious and sudden tornado that tore through Anoka and in a few minutes cut a swath of terrible destruction to the extent of U.S. $500,000.

Five blocks of the town were demolished by the terrific tornado. Mrs. Anna Freeman James and Mrs. Bradley Ellen Freeman were killed when the tornado swept their automobile from the state highway and tossed it into a field. The furious wind caught the car and lifted into the air as if it were a matchbox.

Governor Harold Stassen and the Adjutant-General of the National Guard, Mr. Ellard Walsh, personally directed the rescue operations after the tornado had swept through the town.

National Guardsmen, police and volunteer workers dug through wrecked buildings, uprooted trees and broken communication wires and power lines in their search for victims.

Governor Stassen today reported that the "situation is now under control." The authorities believed that all victims had been found. Some twenty of the injured were in serious condition, they said.

Three hundred National Guardsmen patrolled the streets of the town which was virtually under martial law.

The town's hospital was so crowded that injured persons were even lying in the hall. A carnival was in full blast and many children were riding on the merry-go-round when the storm struck without warning. A footbridge over the river was destroyed, and the wind whipped the waves as high as ten feet, eye-witnesses said.

Miss Josephine Brant, who was motoring in the highway near Anoka, vividly described the terrific tornado.

"I saw a twisting funnel-shaped black cloud strike the town and then pass through. The air was immediately filled with debris. Some buildings collapsed. We drove into streets covered with trees, timbers and wrecked cars. Windows were broken everywhere," she said.—United Press.

Huge Party of Police In Concession Raid

700 Men Take Part in Routine Search

A total of 700 members of the French Police yesterday afternoon participated in the largest raid ever carried out in the French Concession. This took place in a square bordered by Boulevard de Montigny, Rue Kraetzer, Rue Lemaire and Avenue Edward VII where a thorough search of all premises in the neighbourhood was carried out while all exits from the area were blocked until the conclusion of the raid.

Taking part were 60 Europeans, 400 uniformed men, 100 members of the Russian detachment and 150 members of the detective branch of the force. The raid was part of the ordinary work carried out by the police. No important arrests were made during the searches.

Chinese Children in U.S. War Conscious

Art Show in New York Opening

New York, June 18.

The Chinese children's art show opened here today at the Chinese Art Club.

Paintings and drawings by 300 Chinese children in all parts of the United States were exhibited. The paintings and drawings showed that the children closely followed events in the Orient and were strongly conscious of the war situation in China.

Dr. Hu Shih, Chinese Ambassador to the United States, is the honorary chairman of the committee sponsoring the show.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Bishop Paul Yupin, leading Chinese Catholic, and Pearl Buck famous writer on China, are members of the Committee.—United Press.

Nanking's Desire to Purchase Hongkong

Tokyo, June 19.

The opinion that the "Nanking Government" wishes to purchase Hongkong from the British is expressed today by a Japanese press report. "The opinion is gaining ground," it says, "that the 'Nanking Government' is prepared to purchase Hongkong if Great Britain is willing to sell."

It declares that Hongkong has lost its military and economic importance owing to the Japanese blockade of the China coast and the Japanese occupation of Canton, which has resulted in an interruption of traffic on the Canton-Hankow Railway.—Reuter.

German Arrested on U.S. Flying Field

Balboa, Canada Zone, June 18

United States military police today arrested a German, Herr A. Bender, and charged him with trespassing Albrook Field. He was held without bail pending investigation.—United Press.

Why Not Saturday ?

Cleveland, O., June 19.

Mrs. Naomi Lamphere, 19-year-old mother, in asking issuance of a warrant charging her husband with assault and battery, said: "My husband beat me every day but Saturday."—United Press.

GENERAL Yu Han-mou, commander of the Kwangtung Chinese forces, is now conducting a tour of inspection of the Chinese fronts, says a Hongkong Chinese report to the "Shun Pao."
